Three 'Destroyed' Armies Crash Into Rear of Foe In Leningrad Siege.

(By United Press)

Claims and counter-claims from the Russian front were of a preliminary nature and appeared likely to be reduced on both sides by final reports but it was indicated that the Red army was striking back strongly after severe defeats. The Soviet ambassador in London estimated that Germany had lost 3,000,000 men in casualties and prisoners and 8,300 airplanes.

War dispatches showed the following:

ON THE UKRAINIAN FRONT—The German high command claimed the capture of 380,000 Russian prisoners in a big military trap east of Kiev and said that number was mounting rapidly, while Nazis suggested, that total Soviet losses in this sector would be around 1,000,000 in the greatest encirclement battle in history. The Germans reported 50 Russian divisions, probably 750,000 men, destroyed as fighting units for the present.

The Russians did not comment specifically on the Ukrainian front other than to report severe fighting generally, which the Nazis admitted in the southern areas around Poltava and before the big city of Kharkov.

CENTRAL FRONT—The Red army was reported by London to be smashing forward in a counter-drive from the Glukhov area, which is midway between Smolensk and Kharkov, in a desperate attempt to rescue the forces trapped east of Kiev. Berlin ignored the central front.

NORTHERN FRONT — The Russian army newspaper Red Star reported that three armies

Autumn Here But It's Still Summer By Thermometer!

Autumn officially arrived today, attended by the warm sun and clear skies that have placed the weatherman in the good graces of the public for more than a week.

The noonday temperature stood at 75 degrees and indicated that it would go higher, keeping pace with records of the past week when the thermometer soared to 80 degrees and over.

Arriving at 5:33 a. m. the new season brought predictions from the weatherman for generally fair weather and a forecast of cooler in the northern portion tonight. Wednesday's forecast also calls for fair and slightly cooler weather.

The low reading last night was 50 degrees, a little higher than that of Sunday, when it dropped to 42 degrees, and of Saturday when it went down to 45. The average temperature of the last 24 hours, 68.5, was also a little higher than the 16-year average of 61.5.

RUSSIAN ARMY WHITTLES NAZIS

Seeks to Wear Down Strength of Foe With Guns, Attacks Along Central Front.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

WITH THE RED ARMY, at the Central Front — (AP) — The Red army, sloshing through a quagmire in this middle zone of the Arctic-to-Black Sea front, is carrying on a campaign to wear down German men and machines in developing trench war.

Eighteen German divisions are estimated to have lost 50 to 70 per cent of their men and equipment in Soviet counter attacks around Yelnya, Yartsevo and on the flanks above and below Smolensk.

In manpower, this means the loss of perhaps 135,000 to 189,000 men.

Nazis Continue Reprisals For Anti-Germanism.

VICHY — (INS) — Three more Frenchmen have been executed in reprisal for anti-German outbreaks in occupied France, according to an official German military communique today.

Announcement of the new executions followed the sentencing yesterday of five men to death by the new state court sitting in Paris. The executions also followed disclosure of the assassination in Paris last week of a a German Captain Scheben of the German occupying army, who was given an elaborte military funeral.

A German officer, delivering an eulogy over the dead man's bier, pledged the Nazi army to use "all possible means to ensure that these attacks shall not go unavenged."

TRUCK KILLS 14-MONTH-OLD ASHLAND BABY

DIES IN HOSPITAL

His crushed body found lying in the roadway near his home by his father a hall hour after being struck by a dairy truck, Howard J. Binkley, 14 months old, Polk, R. D. 2, died at 11 04 a m today in the Samaritan hospital in Ashland.

Brinkley rushed his son to the hospital but he died of internal injuries less than two hours afterward.

Ashland police, who guided Binkley to the hospital, said that the boy had been playing around the home and had evidently ran a front of the truck without the driver seeing him.

No report of the accident had been filed with the Ashland county sheriff as yet and the driver of the truck has not yet learned of the mishap

Binkley picked his son up as soon as he found him and rushed to Ashland in his car. In the city, he asked a policeman for directions to reach the hospital and was provided with an escort.

The father told police that the driver of the truck was named Parks and worked for the Owens Dairy company of Cleveland.

FDR WILL TALK AT LAUNCHINGS

Plans 500 Word Address for Next Saturday Event.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The White House revealed today that President Roosevelt will make an address Saturday when the U. S. maritime commission holds its great "mass launching" of new merchant cargo vessels.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said that the president spent this morning in his study working over an address of 500 or 600 words. The address will be recorded and the records made available for broadcasting at each of more than a dozen shipyards where a vessel is launched.

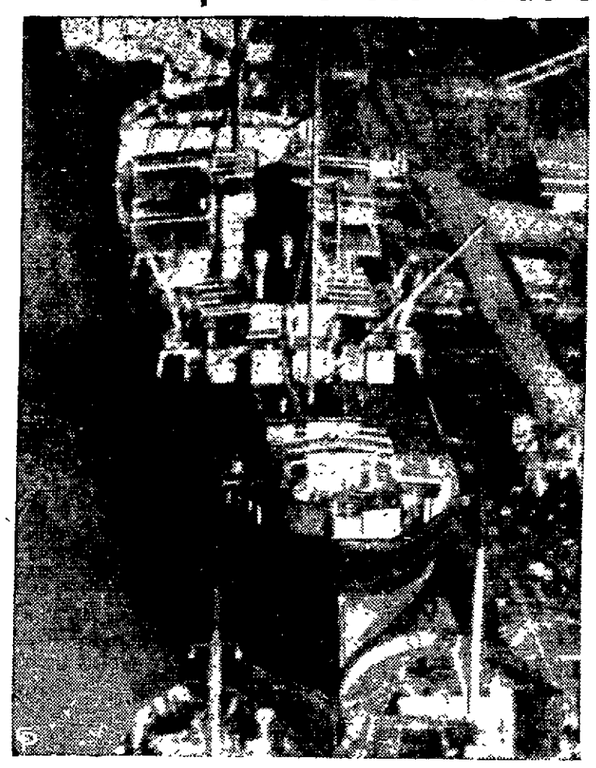
Sunk Despite "Shoot" Orders



Here is the American-owned freighter Pink Star, sunk 200 miles west of Iceland in the first attack on American shipping since the U. S. navy received orders from President Roosevelt to shoot Axis raiders on sight. According to the U. S. state department, the Pink Star was sunk only 45 miles from the scene of the S. S. Sessa torpedoing.

Police Hand Out Word On State's Gambling Orders

Mansfield Officers Contact Liquor Permit Holders, Warn Slots, Punch Boards All Must Go.

Mansfield police today were informing holders of state liquor permits that the "cease-gambling" order issued by the state liquor department will go into effect a week from tomorrow.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates announced that he had been asked by the liquor department to contact all permit holders and to request them to remove all equipment for gambling from their premises before Oct. 1.

"This will include poker sheets, tip sheets, punch boards, slot machines, pinball machines or any other gambling device," said Bates, "and will apply to all holders of liquor permits, whether they sell by the drink or package."

Bates indicated that his department was not contemplating any wholesale invasion of the liquor rooms in the city but that state liquor inspectors will visit the city during the earlier part of next month for a check-up.

State Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor, in issuing his order said that he was planning no anti-gambling campaign but that if necessary he would-hire additional agents to eliminate gambling from places where liquor is sold.

The state department's order only affects gambling where liquor is sold Mayor William J. Locke set standards for a local gambling-control policy on Sept. 8 when he announced that gambling would not be allowed on the city's main streets and would be prohibited "whenever it is seen.

SEEKS TRADE

Duke Will Try to Drum Up U. S. Tourist Business.

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — The Duke of Windsor, once super-salesman for the British empire, will take time out on his vacation trip through the United States and Canada to drum up tourist trade for the little Bahamah colony he now governs.

Miami, first overnight stop on the journey, gave a quiet welcome for him and the American-born duchess.

The Windsors plan to entrain tomorrow for Washington, where the Duke will discuss means of transporting tourists to Nassau, winter resort capital of the Bahama islands. Tourist travel there boomed last season, Edward's first as governor.

The chief object of the trip, Edward said, is to visit his ranch near Calgary, Alberta, which he has not seen for 14 years.

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— About 475 children in two rural school districts in southern Mahoning county were placed under "verbal quarantine" today by Dr. S. G. Patton, county health commissioner, after two new cases of infantile parlysis were discovered.

Dr. Patton closed the North Lima and East Lewistown schools for 14 days. The North Lima branch library also closed.

Willard Youth's Initial Hunting Casualty In Area

With Richland county's squirrel hunting season only one day old, Harold Williams, 20, Willard, was in Willard Municipal hospital today, wounded when a hunting companion's gun accidentally discharged.

Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs Theodore Williams, was shot while hunting with Joseph and Leland Smith, Willard, on the Harry Woodruff farm west of North Fairfield late yesterday.

The youths had completed their hunting for the day and Joseph Smith was unloading cartridges from his shotgun when it accidentally discharged.

Williams was struck in the back of the shoulders and head by the charge and fell to the ground. The Smith boys rushed him to Willard hospital in their auto.

Attendants said that about 50 shotgun pellets had been removed from Williams and that he was in "fair" condition.

The squirrel season for Richland and most of the northern Ohio counties opened yesterday and will continue until next Monday.

ENGINE AND 14 CARS DERAILED AT LAKEVILLE

Train Crews Escape By Leaping Before Crash; Half Mile of Track Damaged.

3 WRECK CREWS ON JOB

Two Pennsylvania railroad freight locomotives collided 32 miles southeast of Mansfield at Lakeville yesterday, derailing a third engine and 14 freight cars and tied up traffic in the Pennsylvania's main lines through this area for more than four hours.

Crews of both trains leaped to safety when they saw that the engines were headed for crash.

The accident occurred at 2:15 p. m. near the Lakeville ticket and freight station and some of the cars came dangerously near toppling over into Odell's lake. Tracks were damaged for more than a half mile.

Scores of passengers were removed from trains blocked by the wreckage and removed by bus to stations in Mansfield and other cities in the district to meet other trains to carry them to their destinations.

Wrecking crews from Crestline, Orrville and Alliance were dispatched to the scene. The wrecked engines and box-cars were pulled off the tracks which were then repaired, permitting traffic over the lines again at 6:15 p. m. yesterday.

E. W. High, assistant trainmaster, said a westbound 90-car freight train stopped on a curve at the Lakeville overpass was struck in the rear by another freight train which failed to stop because of an error in signaling.

Because of the installation of new tracks on the westbound side, he said all trains were using the eastbound tracks with man-

THEY'RE GOOD

Air Forces Reported Better Than Expected In Games.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — High military officials said today that army air forces surpassed all expectations for performance during the Louisiana maneuvers and that only time stood between the United States and unchallengeable superiority in the air.

New combat craft and pilots fresh from training schools participated in the gigantic war games just ended.

Except for the absence of "live" ammunition, flying was done under conditions as nearly warlike as they could be made, and authorities just returned from the maneuver area with copious data on the results to date said they could not have asked for better performance either by men or machines.

Nazi Challenge Seen In Attack On 7th Vessel

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—With guns manned and decks cleared for instant action, U. S. warships today are believed to be intensifying their efforts to hunt down Axis submarines and raiders in the North Atlantic, following the sinking of another American-owned vessel, the steamer Pink Star.

Sinking of the 6,850-ton freighter off the coast of Iceland Sept. 19—three days after issuance of the "shoot first" orders to the navy—is viewed in diplomatic quarters in Washington as a direct and defiant German challenge to President Roosevelt's declared policy of protecting the ships of all flags between this continent and Iceland.

The state department, which announced late yesterday that the vessel, flying the Panamanian flag, was sent to the bottom, is without further information as to the fate of the crew of 34 or any other details of the sinking. No Americans were aboard. The ship was operated by the United States Lines.

This latest incident involving the seventh American ship since outbreak of the war, is seen in Washington as fulfillment of Berlin's warning that Nazi submarines would continue to attack without warning in German blockade zones any ships suspected to be carrying war supplies to Great Britain.

It is further regarded as an indication that Germany does not intend to withdraw its warships completely from those waters which President Roosevelt has declared are "essential" to American defense.

On the contrary, it appears that German submarines intend to risk a clash with the United States navy in order to attack ships in those areas which Germany has proclaimed a blockade zone.

Sinking of the Pink Star, formerly the Danish ship Lundby, is seen in official quarters as part of a deliberate policy rather than as an isolated incident. Officials are convinced that the German government undoubtedly notified the submarine commanders of the orders issued to the American navy.

It is believed the ship that attacked the Pink Star would have had plenty of time to receive such notification before it encountered the vessel, which

BEGIN HEARINGS ON FDR REQUEST

House Conducts Secret Talks on New 5 Billion Dollar Lend-Lease Proposal.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Secret house appropriations committee hearings began today on President Roosevelt's request for $5,895,000,000 of new lend-lease funds.

The first appropriation of $7,000,000,000 voted last March is about exhausted by contract commitments and allocations although deliveries will extend months into the future.

Some questioning legislators remarked that the aggregate of $12,895,000,000 being sought approximately represents the entire expected revenue of the federal government next year, including additional taxes just voted by congress and approved by Mr. Roosevelt. But administration leaders are confident they will be able to obtain speedy house action and a favorable senate vote after sharp debate.

Philip Young of the lend-lease administration was to be the first witness to be followed by Secretary Claude R Wickard, Secretary of War Henry L Stimson, Secretary of Navy Frank Knox, General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations. They or the president will reveal in more detail than such information reaches the public what is being produced for national defense and for the British and how fast. A deficiency bill of more than $100,000,000 later will be added to the lend-lease bill.

Under terms of the March appropriation and on the basis of which Mr. Roosevelt seeks new funds, lend-lease air may be given to any country whose defense he regards as vital to our safety, Mr. Roosevelt has placed the Soviet Union in that category.

Opponents of his foreign policy have indicated to the house leadership that an amendment will be offered to prevent any of the new fund from being used in behalf of the Soviet Union.

GETS PAROLE

Labor Extortionist Will Be Freed Nov. 1.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Harry Barrington, convicted labor extortionist and star witness in two Cleveland labor racketeering cases, was paroled today, effective Nov. 1, from the London prison farm.

Barrington, now 60 years old, was sentenced to three-to-15 years after pleading guilty in October, 1937, to three counts of labor extortions in connection with his activities as business agent for the Cleveland local of the AFL carpenters' union.

He later furnished testimony which enabled Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan and Cleveland Safety Director Elliott Ness to convict Albert Ruddy, former president of the carpenter's district council, and Robert Firestone, former president of the Glaze-Rite company, Cleveland.

Owner Gets Back Rings Left In Gas Station Here 4 Hours

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper M. Clewis, Chicago, are convinced that Mansfield residents are honest people and they have a right to think so after an experience they had last night.

Mrs. Clewis left two diamond rings valued at $125 in the rest room of a service station at Rowland avenue and West Fourth street where her husband had stopped for gasoline.

It was not until they reached Canton and had been there more than an hour that she remembered leaving the rings in Mansfield. Clewis was very pessimistic about chances of recovering the rings.

After discussing it for a while, however, they reported their loss to the Canton police. Contacting Mansfield police by radio, the Canton department informed them that $125 worth of rings were lying around a service station here.

A police cruiser was rushed out to Rowland and Fourth. C. A. Anderson, owner of the station, knew nothing about the loss and was surprised to see the policeman come out of the station rest room holding the rings, which had been lying there for more than four hours.

Texas Coast Braces To Meet Force Of Tropical Hurricane

(By Associated Press)

PORT ARTHUR, Tex.—Residents of coastal Texas braced themselves today to meet the force of a tropical hurricane sweeping in from the Gulf of Mexico.

Many communities in the direct path of the storm were virtually evacuated and stores and homes battened down.

Dangerous gales were forecast from Port Aransas to Port Arthur, three-fourths of the long Texas coast line.

Preparations were made to handle any emergency.

The army ordered all of its 1,700 men from Ellington field, except a skeleton crew of 100 men in the tire, water and electrical departments. Freeport was virtually deserted.

Despite a ten-foot levee, many Port Arthur stores were boarded up and hundreds of refugees from lowland areas crowded into hotels.

Although Galveston is not believed to be in the direct path of the storm, huge waves roared at the sea-wall and the highways were closed by high water.

which the Germans had once said were destroyed crashed forward into the rear of the Nazi forces besieging Leningrad, inflicting some 50,000 casualties on the enemy in the Lake Ilmen area. The Russians admitted 30,000 casualties in this action but said a German army corps and the eighth tank division has been decimated.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky at London, warned against belief that winter would interfere with the German mechanized invasion of Russia and renewed appeals for faster and greater aid from America and Britain.

Aid to the Red army, however, depends on keeping open the sea lanes and there were increasing indications that the Germans and Italians hoped to intensify their submarine war in the near future.

Naval war, in which the American-owned freighter Pink Star was sunk between Iceland and Greenland in defiance of President Roosevelt's order for warships to shoot first, spread from the Gulf of Finland and the Black sea to the Mediterranean and the United States defense zone. Nazis said that the Pink Star may have been among 13 merchantmen yesterday reported sunk by German submarines in the Atlantic, but that no specific report had been received.

Sinking of the 6,850-ton Pink Star, with 34 men aboard, was disclosed at almost the same hour Berlin newspapers declared that German naval units in 10 days had sent 3,019,000 tons of enemy shipping to the bottom in addition to approximately 19 Russian warships and a dozen merchantmen reported sunk or damaged in the Black sea and the Gulf of Finland, where the Luftwaffe is trying to wipe out the trapped Soviet Red banner fleet.

But the sinkings claimed by Berlin are only the beginning, the Nazi newspapers declared without direct reference to the American naval patrols protecting the British-Russian Atlantic supply line as far as Iceland.

Determined to prevent American supplies from reaching the European war theaters in time to affect the outcome of the conflict, the German press said that new "wolf packs" of U-boats would soon be roaming the Atlantic.

In connection with the intensified naval war, the British denied Italian claims that little suicide torpedo boats sneaking into Gibraltar harbor had sunk or gravely damaged four ships and said that only one hulk was sunk.

On the land front in Russia, Moscow dispatches indicated that counter-blows were in progress all along the front, but the main drive appeared to be southeast of the bomb-ruined city of Smolensk on the central front where the Russians were smashing at the German flank in an effort to rescue huge armed forces caught in the Nazi trap east of Kiev.

Other Russians counter-attacks were scattered on several important fronts.

The Germans were reported preparing paratroops and airplane transports for a drive on the Crimea, which has been cut off from the mainland. The Luftwaffe has been heavily attacking the narrow strip of land leading to the Crimea and has bombed the Russian naval base of Sebastopol and Russian warships centered there.

The position of Bulgaria still was unclarified but it was increasingly apparent that the Germans were pressing Sofia to get into the war, probably by a formal declaration of war against Russia. Dispatches from Turkey said diplomatic observers expected such a declaration shortly unless King Boris was unexpectedly successful in opposing extreme pressure.

RAF Makes Attack On Boulogne Docks

LONDON—(INS)—An R. A. F. bombing attack on the docks of German-occupied Boulogne on the French coast during the night was announced by the air ministry today.

A communique said the raid was carried out by a small number of bombers, all of which returned.

Yesterday, the air ministry added, British planes scored a hit on a large enemy supply ship off the coast of Norway.

Force Germans and Italians to Evacuate

CAIRO—(INS)—As a result of "vigorous patrolling activity," British forces at Tobruk are steadily enlarging the area outside the perimeter of their defenses, a British army communique said today.

German and Italian forces besieging Tobruk, it was stated, are forced to evacuate this area each night due to British attacks. Aggressive action by British patrols in the western frontier area is continuing at the same time.

artillery guns. I followed the progress of the campaign on the first visit by foreign correspondents to the battle zone.

In the Yartsevo sector I saw fields torn by tank treads and pitted by shell craters, and littered ruins of thatched cottages and blasted villages through which the Russians drove the Germans back.

In a series of three assaults, a colonel said, the Germans were driven back nine miles, leaving quantities of equipment and many prisoners.

"Some Germans went mad under our artillery fire, so prisoners told us," the colonel related. "The Germans are frightened by our patrols and night action. They do a lot of shooting just to make noise, fire tens of thousands of rockets and turn the night into day to see where they are.

"We are glad to have this light free of charge."

In the Yelnya sector, abandoned trenches around the village of Ushakovo marked the advance point from where the Germans were driven back more than 20 miles and still were retreating when I left the front. The Nazis put the torch to Yelnya before they withdrew and left the city a mass of ruins, the Russians said.

The former German front line consisted of a continuous system of trenches hastily dug about 10 feet deep.

Russian trenches led from the forest to T-shaped points within 50 yards of the German lines and served as a springboard for the bayonet assault which started the rout of the Nazis, Russians said.

Unopened boxes of ammunition, German helmets, uniforms, mass graves and unspiked barbed wire marked the line of the Nazi retreat.

Weather and terrain appeared to favor the Russians. Rain whipped by a cold wind fell intermittently. Winter snows should begin two months hence.

Most of the battleground is a trackless expanse of forests and fields with lowlands oozing mud and water. The few sideroads are churned to a sticky mass of clay.

SUPREME COURT HEARING SUIT

Ohio Tribunal Gets Action to Halt Payment of Mileage.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Ohio supreme court convenes today in the first session of the regular fall term, with the suit to prevent payment of mileage to state legislators one of the first cases to be heard.

The suit was brought by Arnold Harbage, Madison county farmer and self-appointed "watchdog of the treasury" who seeks to prevent payment of approximately $45,000 due state senators and representatives for mileage traveled during the regular session of the legislature. He contended that legislators under the constitution were entitled to no allowances of any kind beyond their $2,000 a year salary.

DEATH CLAIMS WOMAN DOCTOR

Dr. Kerr had retired from active medical practice here a number of years ago because of ill health. Dr. Kerr and her husband, Dr. J. F., celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary earlier this year.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon here. Burial will be made in the Greenlawn cemetery at Plymouth. Other arrangements are incomplete.

TRUCK FOUND, PAROLEE HELD

Former OSR Inmate Returned To Jail Here From Piqua.

Ray Poling, 21, paroled from the Ohio State Reformatory less than two weeks ago, was in the county jail today after being brought back to Mansfield from Piqua yesterday by Sheriff Frank Robinson.

Poling, admitted to the reformatory in October, 1939, to serve a one-to-20 year sentence for auto theft, took a truck owned by Neil Robinson, near Mansfield, last Tuesday and left the city, the sheriff said. Robinson, Poling's employer, had reported the vehicle stolen and the truck and Poling were picked up by Piqua authorities.

No charges against Poling had been filed at noon today, according to the sheriff.

ASK DAMAGES ON LATE DELIVERY

Navy Officials Bring Action Against Shipbuilders.

The company is opposing the claim on the ground that delay in delivery was due to causes beyond its control, including strikes, slowness in receipt of material and shortages of skilled men.

This was disclosed today by President W. H. Gerhauser in the annual report to the company's stockholders. The net tenders were ordered in August, 1940, for delivery by June 30, 1941. Six had been delivered as of last Saturday.

One locomotive was overturned when it struck the "pusher engine" on the rear of the train ahead. Five cars ahead of the pusher engine were derailed and nine cars on the freight train in the rear were thrown off the track. The other two locomotives were badly damaged.

The freight trains were loaded with drygoods, meat, fish and refrigerators.

High said an investigation into the cause of the wreck will be held in Pittsburgh tomorrow. He said there was no evidence of sabotage, reiterating that an error in signaling had caused the smash-up.

Meanwhile in Lakeville, wrecking crews, still were engaged in handling the damaged cars and locomotives. They were watched by hundreds of spectators.

Trainmen who escaped from the overturned engine were Cliff Snyder, engineer, and F. L. Cairns, firemen. High did not know this morning where they lived, but said that none of the trainmen involved were Mansfielders.

Trainmen in the second engine of the following train were A. C. Moore and T. F. Crafton and the engineer in the "pusher" engine which was struck was Thomas Carter.

3 Killed, 10 Hurt In Wreck In West

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—A heavy freight engine, running without cars, collided head-on with the crack Western Pacific Exposition flyer in a terrific crash some 40 miles west of here late last night. Three trainmen died and 10 other persons, seven of them passengers, were injured.

Engineer Frank Huff and Fireman A. A. Lown, both of Oakland, were crushed and burned to death in the flyer's engine. Oscar Lane, 62, of Oakland, baggage man of the flyer, died later in a hospital.

The roadbed was torn up for 300 feet, the rails bent like hairpins and the engines a tangled mass of smoking steel. Two cars were derailed and the flyer's baggage car was demolished.

ADMITS HE SHOT MORROW WOMAN

67-Year-Old Man Turns Gun on Self, Expected to Live.

DELAWARE—(INS)—Winfield Wilcox, 67-year-old Delaware county veterinarian, has admitted the fatal shooting of a 45-year-old Morrow county woman whose body was found near Delaware, Deputy Sheriff Earl Fravel asserted today.

Fravel said Mrs. Elsie Powell, of Turney Center, was shot during an argument at Wilcox's home. Wilcox turned the gun on himself, but the bullet glanced off his skull and the wound is not expected to be fatal, the deputy said.

Wilcox, who holds a license as a veterinarian in Canada, has been "keeping company" with Mrs. Powell, Fravel said.

ENTERS PLEA

Ludwig Says He's Not Guilty On Espionage Charge.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Kurt Frederick Ludwig, whom the government accuses of being a master spy in an alleged German espionage ring, pleaded not guilty to violation of the espionage law in federal court yesterday.

Two other alleged members of the ring withdrew guilty pleas. They were Hans Pagel and Frederick Edward Schlosser, both of Brooklyn.

NEW SINKING SPURS PATROLS BY U. S. NAVY

Therefore, it is assumed that the Nazi submarines have been instructed to continue to sink without warning any British-bound merchant ships caught in the German blockade zone. All of the attacks on American-owned vessels in the North Atlantic so far have been within this zone.

This fact has led to the belief in neutral diplomatic quarters in Washington that the German submarines may have been instructed to confine their attacks on the American side of the Atlantic to this zone, and to avoid encounters with American warships and merchant vessels elsewhere in the western hemisphere.

The Pink Star is the third American-owned ship to be sunk and the fourth to be attacked in the North Atlantic in the war. All the attacks have occurred in the neighborhood of the Danish straits, between Greenland and Iceland. All of the ships sunk were former Danish vessels requisitioned by the American government and registered under the Panama flag to enable them to carry war supplies to Great Britain.

The Pink Star's crew included six British, eight Canadians, eight Dutch, three Chinese, one Dane, one Pole, one French, one Portuguese, one Irishman, one Ecuadoran and three Belgians.

Germans Accept Responsibility

BERLIN—(INS)—In a tacit admission of German responsibility, a Nazi government spokesman today said that sinking of the American-owned steamer Pink Star "was all according to international regulations."

"There is no reason for Americans to cry," the spokesman said. "They have been made fully aware of the blockade zone."

The German-declared blockade zone embraces Iceland and extends to Greenland territorial waters.

The spokesman pointed out that the Pink Star was not under United States registry.

London Papers Play Up Sinking

LONDON — (INS) — London newspapers today splashed reports of the sinking of the Pink Star, the Daily Mail commenting:

"The first naval battle between United States and German warships may take place at any moment."

The Daily Telegraph said:

"President Roosevelt's shoot-at-sight order has been defied . . . this makes it plain the Nazis have embarked on a policy of flouting President Roosevelt's warning."

'Suicide Boats' To Attack U. S. Ships

ROME — (INS) — Axis "suicide boats" such as the torpedo craft which yesterday raided Gibraltar will attack any American shipping which attempts to reach Britain, Editor Virginio Gayda warned today.

"The Gibraltar feat warns American shipping of the fate likely to befall craft entering British harbors," Gayda, spokesman for Premier Mussolini, wrote in the Giornale D'Italia.

"President Roosevelt's patrol system brings under unhappy auspices the Allies associated with Britain.

They must be warned that the Italian means of assault such as penetrated Gibraltar offers the greatest risk to the Allies and associates of Britain."

Will Try To Keep Northern Port Open

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Soviet Russia will attempt to keep the Arctic port of Archangel open this winter to receive shipments of war aid from the United States, informed quarters said today. The port normally is ice-bound from November to May.

The importance of keeping a supply line open in the north has led the Russians to develope a route to Archangel "over the top of the world"—from the west coast of the United States, around Alaska, and through Bering Strait and the Arctic Ocean north of Siberia. It is called the "Soviet northern sea route."

War supplies from the United States already are moving over the Atlantic route to Archangel.

REPORTS THIEF STEALS PURSE

Woman Tells Police Negro Forced His Way Into Home.

Mrs. Fred Collins, 268 North Mulberry street, reported to police today that a colored man had forced his way into her home last night and robbed her of a purse containing $9.

Mrs. Collins said she heard someone at the door shortly before midnight and opened it to investigate. She told police a colored man was standing there and pushed her back into the house. He then grabbed her purse from a table and fled, she reported.

'Cub' Mansfield Patrolman Nabs 3 Drivers In One Chase

Canadian mounted police have the reputation of "always getting their man," but Patrolman Richard Hecht, a member of Mansfield's new traffic squad, got not one but three of them yesterday.

Hecht was patrolling Park avenue west on his motorcycle yesterday afternoon when five autos came speeding into the city. The patrolman clocked them all at 52 miles an hour and took out after them.

Putting on a little speed himself, he rounded up three of the five drivers but two eluded him by turning up side streets.

Four of the motorists were test drivers for a Detroit automobile firm. Two of the men, Joseph F. Bachman, Birmingham, Mich., and Harry E. Chesebrough, Detroit, Mich., appeared in municipal court this morning and were fined $10 and costs each by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

Ray M. Cornely, Kirby, who, police said, was racing the test drivers, forfeited $25 bond by failure to appear.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals said that Hecht's feat was unusual and that traffic patrolmen were seldom able to arrest more than two motorists at one time.

DENIED PAROLE

Commission Declines To Free Man Who Shot Geauga Farmer.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Joseph Battista, 36-year-old hunter who last fall shot Robert Fenwick, Geagua county farmer, when Fenwick ordered Battista from his farm, was refused a parole from the London prison farm today by the Ohio pardon and parole commission.

Battista entered Ohio penitentiary two days before Christmas to serve a one-to-15-year term on a charge of shooting to kill. He was later transferred to the prison farm.

START CAMPAIGN TO RAISE FUNDS FOR HOSPITAL

Shelby Workers Meet Tonight To Launch $75,000 Addition Drive at Shelby.

SHELBY—Supplies and instructions for the drive to raise $75,000 for the Shelby Memorial hospital addition will be distributed to 200 workers during a dinner meeting at 6 p. m. today at First Lutheran church for them.

The drive will be held Wednesday and Thursday in charge of John Warden, general chairman.

All civic, patriotic and social organizations are backing the campaign to raise the hospital addition fund.

Atty. Frank C. Long, community chest chairman, announced today that there would not be a community chest drive here this year so that it would not interfere with the raising of the hospital addition fund. The drives are usually held every other year. The drive last year would carry enough funds over for the chest to operate for another year, Long pointed out.

The need of an addition has been stressed by hospital officials by the fact that the hospital was built in 1921 to care for 25 patients. There are now 42 beds crowded into the building.

With the proposed addition, the hospital would be able to efficiently care for 50 patients.

Ex-Mansfielder Was Oldest Man At Byerly Reunion

D. W. Byerly, former Mansfielder, now residing near Loudonville, has recently returned from a family reunion, held in Clendening, W. Va., at which he was the oldest male member of the family present.

Mr. Byerly is 85, and for 17 years lived in Mansfield. Eighty-three descendants of the Byerly family attended the reunion. His grandfather, the late Andrew Byerly, was a pioneer settler in that part of Richland county which later became part of Ashland county, Mr. Byerly recalls.

TWO INJURED

GALION—Mrs. Ruth Kieffer of southeast of Galion, wife of David W. Kieffer, a 77-year-old retired farmer, suffered a fractured right leg and concussion, in an automobile accident Sunday evening at the intersection of Cass road and route 61. She was an occupant of a car driven by her husband. He suffered chest injuries. Their car was entering route 61, from the Cass road, according to a report to the Marion patrolmen who covered the accident. Kieffer failed to make the turn and hit the opposite embankment.

FACE CHARGES

Trio Accused of Carrying Concealed Weapons.

ASHLAND—Chris Stuhldreher, 29, of Ashland, Pete March, 28, of Sandusky, and Earl Clifford Sparks, 21, also of Sandusky, have had charges of carrying concealed deadly weapons filed against them.

The trio was arrested by the highway patrol on U. S. route 42 early Sunday morning for speeding. At the same time the Ashland sheriff's office and the police department had broadcast for the arrest of the three men after failing to arrest them in Ashland.

When arrested, two revolvers were found on the front seat of the sedan in which they were riding and a shotgun and a repeating rifle were found in a locked trunk in the car.

Pursuit of the three men started in Ashland about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night after a call was made to the police station that the driver of the car had threatened Beechler Markle of near West Salem outside the Evergreen tavern south of Ashland on the Hayesville road. Later in Ashland they drove away as a police officer went to arrest them.

TEACHERS WILL BE ENTERTAINED

LOUDONVILLE—The P. T. A. will welcome the new teachers at a reception next Wednesday evening. Mrs. E. H. Ebeling is chairman of the committee.

The organization will begin the annual drive for membership this week. Mrs. Eugene Miller is chairman of the drive.

GALION HEARS RED CROSS TALK

GALION — Speaker Monday evening at the Galion Rotary club meeting held at Hotel Talbott was Bess Kinsey of Washington, D. C., representative of the Red Cross of the Northwest district of Ohio. Other guests of the club were Lucy Ailer, school health nurse and Red Cross official in Galion, Mrs. W. P. Kimble, chairman of the Red Cross chapter of Galion, and Rev. R. S. McCutchen of the Cardington Rotary club.

Miss Kinsey gave a brief history of the Red Cross and told that when it was chartered by congress in 1905 there were two obligations provided; service to men in the army and their families, and relief to civilians.

The Red Cross has four programs, she said. Under the Safety program, first aid is taught, farm and home safety education is emphasized, life saving, and the establishment of highway first aid stations are also included in this program.

The health program provided nursing service, training of high school seniors and housewives in elementary nursing, and a nurses' aid course in hospitals. In this latter course the United States government is asking this year for 100,000 women and girls.

Another program is the Junior Red Cross, and the fourth program is the volunteer. Under the program comes the aid to the blind, canteen services for enlisted men and disasters, and the formation and training of motor corps.

Miss Kinsey said that this year Red Cross chapters are going to be asked to double their membership because of increased obligations and uncertainty of the future. She said that the Galion chapter has the highest percentage of membership in Red Cross in proportion to its population than any other town or city in Ohio.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1941

It seems that everything must be sacrificed to defense—except politics.

Answering a frequent question: Explosion of a car of dynamite in the Crestline railroad yards was Nov. 1, 1903; the Shelby bridge disaster was July 4, 1898.

With Cincinnati out of the running, Ohio baseball fans can take a rather disattached attitude toward the race between the Dodgers and the Cardinals for the National league pennant—even to the extent of commenting, "May the better team win!"

When Unity Is Most Urgent

NOTHING should be permitted, at this time, to influence any American citizen against complete co-operation with this nation's defense and aid program, for which there must be even greater unification of sentiment and effort than has thus far been evidenced.

Several national figures of the Wheeler, Nye and Lindbergh type, are doing their utmost to prevent unified support of the position that has been taken by the United States against the Axis powers, but it may be doubted if the full weight of the isolationist group, in its preachment of disunity, is as disturbing as the material being presented in the series of articles which President Roosevelt has written for Collier's, the third of which is in the current issue.

The first two of these articles dealt largely with Mr. Roosevelt's stubborn and discredited Supreme Court fight in 1937 and gave opportunity for derogatory comments on a majority of the court membership at that time—all with the Roosevelt assurance of personal infallibility.

The third discusses Mr. Roosevelt's intervention in the congressional primaries of 1938, which, he says, "was slurringly referred to, by those who were opposed to liberalism, as a 'purge'."

This, it will be recalled, was a controversy entirely within his own party—in which he believed that he was completely right and that his opponents were completely wrong.

Just why President Roosevelt should choose this particular time to tear open scarcely healed political sores, and to re-direct public notice to some of his most controversial domestic policies, is difficult to understand.

It is not unified—or even majority—support of President Roosevelt's court packing, primary purge, NRA, return of liquor, or New Deal policies in general, that is now being sought. Those accomplishments or failures are in the past and should be put aside, at least temporarily, while the American people as a whole unite to meet one of the greatest crises in the nation's history.

Readers of the series of articles in Collier's will do well to consider them as products of Franklin D. Roosevelt, egoist extraordinary, rather than charging them against him as president of the United States and commander in chief of the nation's military forces.

The plea for unity is in support of the international policies of the United States government, under leadership of President Roosevelt—to the end that this nation may escape, insofar as possible, the horrors of warfare now being visited upon many of the peoples of the world.

Ideal City For Conventions

MANSFIELD'S experience last week in satisfactorily taking care of thousands of visitors, here for conventions and conferences, strengthens belief that the information should be more widely heralded over the state that this is an ideal city in which to hold state and district conventions, and other meetings of various sorts.

Extremely big cities have their disadvantages as meeting places and many of the smaller cities do not have facilities to entertain as large crowds as are sometimes brought together on these occasions.

Mansfield is readily accessible from all parts of the state and with active local representation in practically all organizations it appears that this is a phase of community effort to which even more attention might well be given.

When Nature Puts On a Show

NO LESS interesting than the great aurora borealis display over most of the United States the other night was what people thought of it. From the eager inquiries at newspaper offices it was evident that citizens in general cherished a lot of curious folklore and superstition about such matters. The telephone switchboard people were saying "northern lights, northern lights, northern lights" as fast as they could, for news, but that explanation didn't satisfy the public.

Nature herself, many argued, couldn't produce such an incredible sight. Some thought it was people playing tricks with big searchlights. Some thought it was the reflection of the shooting in Europe. Some thought the world was coming to an end. Some had a notion that it was the army experimenting with a new chemical. Some suspected Hitler and his dive-bombers. Some thought it might be military searchlight drill. Some suspected the presence of German airships signalling each other. Some believed it portended America's entry into the war.

The plain facts of such a phenomenon are weird enough. Scientists have soberly explained that it comes from whirling storms in the sun, so vast in this case that they covered an area 140,000 miles in diameter, shooting their electrical waves through about 90,000,000 miles of empty space, wildly exciting and electrifying layers of thin air perhaps 100 miles above the earth.

Another Unhappy Traitor

UNEASY lies the head of a Quisling. The Norwegian who has given his name to the current type of national betrayal in Europe is represented now as in a dire state of mind and nerves. There are rumors that he recently tried to kill himself. An escaped Norwegian newspaper man says:

"Quisling has the look of a haunted man and his eyes have a fanatical glare. Neither he nor his wife can sleep without narcotics. Three of his fellow-puppets have tried to commit suicide, and the fourth has left Norway for the Russian front because he could no longer bear the ostracism of his comrades."

Judas also was quite unhappy afterward. The Benedict Arnolds of history all found that the business didn't pay.

THE LIFE AND DEATH STRUGGLE

Listen World!

Campus Tragedy

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'S small and roundish—looks like one of those young tykes who come whooping into the kitchen when school's out, looting the doughnut jar, polishing off the lemonade. Ought, by rights, to be perched on the table, swinging sunburned shins . . . apple in one hand, cookie in the other.

But there were no apples in Ann Marie Hanssen's hands when she sat before the Judge the other day. They lay empty in her lap. And those who glimpsed them, turned quickly away. For they were seeing something which did not bear remembering.

They were seeing the shadows of two dead bodies. Ann Marie's own babies, strangled by her own hands, after she bore them, out of wedlock—a year apart.

"But what possessed her?"

Life possessed her—and life can run at flood fury when you're 20 and tasting, for the first time the fun, freedom and forbidden fruit of campus life. So it ran for Ann Marie, two years ago, as she signed up for her course at California's state college in San Diego.

Yes—some of it was certainly surprising. Plenty to college life that you didn't learn out of a book! But she wasn't a kid any more, she assured herself. Girls knew how to take care of themselves, nowadays. And what harm was there in a little petting? After all, you're only young once. You had to have some fun . . . the fellows would drop you pronto if you started being difficult. And so-o—.

The rest of it? All the world knows that story by now. Knows how young Ann Marie bore her babies alone, in a nightmare of fear and pain—killing them both before they'd barely drawn breath. Now she was standing before Judge Kelly, while a horrified state listened to her revelations.

According to her testimony, Ann Marie claims that she was influenced to kiss by lectures which she heard in her own classrooms . . . Lectures which, she says, not only discussed but condoned trial marriages and promiscuous sex relations "in which about 80 per cent of the women students indulged," according to one speaker.

Judge Kelly doesn't believe that charge and most of the faculty indignantly deny that any instructor ever "tacitly sanctioned such things." But Dr. Bernice Stone, director of health instruction at San Diego college, has astounded court and public alike by declaring:

"I THINK A CERTAIN AMOUNT OF 'NECKING'—THAT IS, KISSING AND HUGGING—IS ABSOLUTELY NORMAL FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS."

Meaning, one presumes, that such emotional craving is natural during campus years. It is—but that's no reason for including it in the college curriculum. There are many urges, equally NATURAL which we've ruled out of our civilized credo or confined within civilized restrictions. Lying, stealing, cruelty, even murder — all these acts are NATURAL, NORMAL AND OFTEN HIGHLY SATISFYING . . . TO SAVAGES. But that's why we have colleges—

THAT OUR CHILDREN MAY RISE ABOVE THE JUNGLE CODE . . . MAY RECEIVE THE MOST VALUABLE TRAINING EDUCATION CAN BESTOW—TRAINING IN SELF-CONTROL.

Never has youth faced a period of greater temptation and bewilderment than it does today. It is unthinkable that a woman of Dr. Stone's intelligence and power should take a stand which is found to increase the difficulties and destroy safeguards of sentiment and tradition which the race has spent thousands of years in building. Granted, morbid prudishness may prove as dangerous as promiscuity. We should learn the truth about our bodies, should delight in their beauty and power, should welcome and reverence marriage.

BUT THAT DOES NOT MEAN TURNING OUR STATE CAMPUSES INTO CATTLE CORRALS . . . OR ENCOURAGING OUR CHILDREN TO MAJOR IN INDECENCY!

Timely Editorial

Winning War on Billboards.

The battle to rescue the American countryside from obliterating billboards promises victory to their enemies, according to Albert S. Bard of the National Roadside council. Writing in the National Municipal Review, he cites the fact that, in six years, twenty-two states have passed laws restricting outdoor advertising. "The interests striving to use the highways for selfish profit," he says, "are on the defensive."

"The most dramatic sector recently," he continues, "has been Pennsylvania. It needed to be; a motorist on the Lancaster pike saw more immense billboards than rolling hills, and, to visit Gettysburg, he worked through acres of advertising.

"But some years ago the women started a spirited campaign. Finally, because of the sheer, unrelenting pressure, things moved. The state department of commerce took a hand to help eliminate unsightly advertising from certain mountain areas. The billboard industry, the oil companies and the hotels saw the handwriting on the wall and hastily joined in a "co-operative roadside improvement program'."—Baltimore Sun.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"The White Man's Burden."

"What," inquires a reader, "is meant by the phrase 'the white man's burden'?"

The allusion is to the supposed responsibility of the white races for the welfare of the more backward ones.

The author of the expression is Rudyard Kipling, and it was put in circulation by way of his poem, published in 1899, inspired by the new association between the United States and the Philippine Islands.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Former Hollywood Mogul Started Senate Investigation of the Movies

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Chief questions being asked of the senate's investigation of Hollywood are: Who is really behind it? Who persuaded a sub-committee to proceed with an unauthorized probe?

The senators who introduced the resolution, Nye and Clark, admit that they haven't seen the movies which they are critizing. Yet they are armed with a great mass of data which someone must have dug up for them.

The other members of the sub-committee also admit they haven't seen the alleged propaganda pictures. And the senate as a whole rejected the investigation and declined to appropriate any money for it.

But despite all this, five senators are going ahead anyway, spending considerable money and even more time to stage a solemn investigation of Hollywood.

Senators are famous for their laziness. They don't go looking for extra work. Obviously someone coked them up.

The answer to this mystery has for some time been in the hands of Wendell Willkie, counsel to the picture industry. But he has no right to cross-examination, and so far this has prevented his making public the solution.

However, he has significant evidence that for several weeks the America First committee has had a group of research people busy in New York studying the movies and radio programs. They have been working under the direction of John T. Flynn, head of the New York America First committee. And one research worker hired to listen in on radio programs w. . Cuy Juneman, a henchman of Joe McWilliams, Christian Front leader in New York. These were the people who dug up part of the dope for the senators.

* * *

Hollywood Ghosts.

BUT even more important than this New York group has been the little group of ghosts in Los Angeles, who helped inspire the present senate investigation. Its members include:

G. Allison Phelps—Los Angeles radio commentator and author of the "Tower of Babel," a booklet scathingly critical of Hollywood.

Winfield Sheehan—husband of the famous opera singer, Jeritza. Sheehan was a producer for Shirley Temple and Will Rogers.

Sheehan had some lucky breaks—and some unlucky ones. He was lucky enough to be with 20th Century and Fox just at the time Shirley Temple and Will Rogers were in their heyday. But on the other hand, he had no success whatsoever with Alice Faye, who went over big only after Sheehan left 20th Century.

Subsequently for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer he produced "Florian," supposed to be the story of his wife, Jeritza, with the plot laid in a Spanish riding school in Vienna. The film was a flop, and Sheehan has been down on Hollywood leaders ever since.

For more than a year these three men have been collaborating in attacks—some public, some behind the scenes—on the motion picture industry.

Most of the out-in-front fighting has been done by G. Allison Phelps in his daily broadcasts. However, the man behind him was Russell Mack (Mahoney) and the man behind Mack in turn was Winfield Sheehan.

Last summer G. Allison Phelps, the Los Angeles radio commentator, went to Washington. There he hung out at the office of isolationist Senator Reynolds, of North Carolina, and conferred at length with the isolationist senators who now have turned up on the sub-committee investigating motion pictures.

Returning to Los Angeles, Phelps boasted over the radio that he had accomplished big things in Washington. And sure enough, on August 1, Senator Clark, of Missouri, introduced a resolution demanding an investigation of Hollywood. Two days later, Phelps in his radio broadcast commented on the Clark resolution as follows:

"And now, friends, this is but the beginning. I wish I could read you the letters I have received within the last two weeks from certain senators bearing on the investigation. I wish I could read to you one telegram I received from Senator Charles W. Tobey (now on the investigating committee). This is but the forerunner of the congressional investigation of the entire motion picture industry."

Mr. Phelps had gone to town in Washington.

Here's the Lowdown.

REAL LOWDOWN on the alleged $100,000 fee Willkie is said to be getting from the movie industry is that he did not talk fee in advance. At first he refused to take the case because he hadn't time to prepare it, finally consented but said the fee would depend on how much time the hearing took. . . . Movie moguls have wisecracked that they might pay Willkie with the proceeds from one anti-Nazi propaganda film. If so he would get far more than $100,000. Contrary to the impression spread by the senate committee, these films make real dough. That, say the moguls, is why they produce them.

Isolationist senators gave it out that Nick Schenck, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, shunned an appearance before their committee. Schenck is probably the biggest force in Hollywood, produced "Escape" and some of the biggest money-makers among the anti-Nazi films. Actually he has been itching to get on the witness stand, but the senate committee stalled for time, allegedly to let Senator Curley Brooks go to the American Legion convention.

James Twohey's weekly Analysis of Newspaper Opinion shows that about 90 per cent of the newspaper editorials panned the senate for investigating the movies. . . . Ninety-three per cent of the newspapers also were critical of Lindbergh for blaming the trend to war on the Jews.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

FIRST thing OPM chiefs did when hard-boiled Price Administrator Leon Henderson became an OPM executive in the recent shake-up was to put under his jurisdiction the auto, paper pulp and machine tool industries, all subjects of hot controversy Henderson's reply was, "The tougher they are the better I like 'em." . . . Smoking is prohibited in the senate chamber but that doesn't prevent South Carolina's "Cotton Ed" Smith from enjoying his tobacco. He loads up with a huge wad and chews furiously during sessions, spitting carefully into a spittoon placed especially at his desk. . . . Although Floyd Oldham is a leading Wall Streeter, his strongest backers as head of the new OPM Division for Contract Distribution were inner circle New Dealers.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—In an era of bright good looks where model agencies have replaced the pony choruses of Broadway musical shows as springboards to fortune and fame for attractive young women, it is worthwhile to pay attention to a candid examination of the modeling profession by one of its most gifted pupils, Olga Malcova, whose book, "Wanted—Girl With Glamour," is an intelligent fascinating study of what the modeling world really is.

Certainly those well-built young girls around New York today prefer jobs as models to places in the line along Broadway. Not only is the remuneration more attractive, their chances of breaking out into the world of the theater and the films are greater.

* * *

I SHOULD think this would be an excellent thing for any girl contemplating modeling as a career to digest. Miss Malcova makes it clear that modeling is one of the most exacting of professions. The work is grueling. There are a score of do's and don't's that must be observed. Conduct during off-hours, reputation, mannerisms, personality and tact—these make or break the individual and often spell the difference between the high salaried models and the girls who get nowhere.

Just what is the life of a New York model? . . . "She's down in the garment center, tumbling in and out of eighty costumes a day. . . . She's in the regal atmosphere of Fifth Avenue, swathed in spun gold and dream cloth . . . She's in a designer's studio long hours of the day to inspire the skilled fingers of artists in fabric and fancy . . . She's before a hundred cameras while 10,000 watts burn fiercely down on her from a dozen lights . . . She's an innocent if you believe her starry-eyed frankness, a sophisticate if you catch the sweep of her haughty silhouette . . . But to those who live in the model's room; to those whose fortunes are chartered in the agency's assignment office — she's just a wholesome girl whose back often aches, whose feet usually hurt and who, more times than not, crawls dead tired to bed at nine."

* * *

ANOTHER point to remember, as Miss Malcova points out, is that a figure like Paulette Goddard's and a face like Hedy Lamarr's and more oomph than Ann Sheridan's isn't essential to a successful career . . . You can be anything from size ten to 16 . . . Square shoulders are an asset . . . If you are photogenic, so much the better . . . Vitality, warmth, aliveness and a "feeling" for clothes are important.

Modeling falls into two broad categories, retail and wholesale. . . . When you say wholesale, you mean all manufactured clothing from foundation garments to shoes, gloves and furs. Retail means modeling millinery, corsets, sweaters and outer garments.

Fees in New York range generally from $5 to $15 an hour. A few, a very few, command as high as $25 an hour . . . The best known agencies are the Powers agency and the Conover agency . . .

In any case, it's an idea. It's also work. New York has many successful models, and there is always room for new ones . . . Titan hair, they tell me, is in demand by color photographers. . . . So if you're a red head, fine. . . . But blondes and brunettes are the rule.

Daily Bible Thought

And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.—Isa. 2:4.

A Farmer's Diary

At the Street Fair

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WENT with the two oldest boys to the free street fair, in our village. They were eager. Their evening milking and feeding were quickly done, without prompting. They scarcely tasted their supper in their hurry to get started. Going out to the car, they pulled at my arms and coat to help me along faster, for if I didn't hurry we'd be too late to see anything.

The village teemed with excitement. Every available parking space was taken and cars lined both sides of the street. Downtown, the business section was roped off for displays and carnival attractions. We finally found a place just vacated, only a short block from the band stand where a hillbilly orchestra was playing and a caller was calling an old-time dance. Almost before I had stopped, both boys were out and part way up the alley. They danced about impatiently until I caught up.

We stood, for a little, and watched the dancers swing their partners and all promenade. Then the galloping saddled steeds of the merry-go-round attracted my young companions, while far down the street the ferris wheel with its high line of moving lights and the people calmly riding above the tallest buildings was still more wonderful. We moved that way, stopping to watch and listen to shrill cries of salesmen at the salt water taffy stand, the throwing with baseballs contest, the peanut wagon, the popcorn vendor.

"I wish you'd take us on that big wheel, Daddy—and sit right between us," said the six-year-old. So I bought two tickets, and the oldest boy proudly bought his own, with a dime of his pickle money. We were near enough to get the second seat. The bar in front of us was fastened well, but still the boys suggested I'd better look to be sure nobody had tampered with the fastener. We began to climb—higher and higher, with each loaded seat. "Put your arm around me, Daddy," suggested the littler boy, "I'm shivery." And when we reached the highest point. "Gee, hold me tighter yet! If I'd fall down on top of that roof, I'd be there all night. This is plenty high to suit me."

Finally the great wheel was loaded and when we descended, going more and more rapidly, he held his breath and partly hid beneath my coat. "Daddy," he wondered, between short gasps, "Why does it hurry so? We aren't going anywhere—I'll bet we'll get off right where we got on!"

Back on solid ground, I noticed a neighbor watching us with a queer smile. He is older than I. His boys are all grown-up. I challenged him.

"I don't see what you're here for," I said. "Now I had to come, to bring these boys!"

"I happen to be on the fair board," he declared blandly. "It takes fellows like me to get up fairs that fellows like you can't stay away from!"

Which seems fair enough!

GEORGIA READS RUGGED VIEWS OF TALMADGE

Governor States Policies In Own Weekly Newspaper.

ATLANTA, Ga. —(U.P.)—When Eugene Talmadge, governor of Georgia, speaks ex cathedra, he uses not the regular press of the state but his own paper. The Statesman.

Talmadge founded the paper eight years ago during his first term as governor. He used it as a convenient method of getting his undiluted message to the people, and in or out of office has maintained it since.

Weekly publication of The Statesman is an event probably without parallel in any other state. Politicians grab it to read the governor's two column, front page, signed editorial. Sometimes it's only a homely soliloquy on the beauties of a fox race, or a report on his farming operations, but often it's an unequivocal statement of Talmadge policy.

The public, and 15,000 people pay the $1 a year subscription fee, take it home to read and dig out nuggets of Talmadge's horny-handed, both feet on the ground, philosophy.

Occasionally The Statesman reprints stories from Georgia weeklies and dailies. Regularly the state's weeklies and dailies reprint stories from The Statesman.

Heavily flavored with the Talmadge personality, the paper's masthead announces that The People are the editors, and Eugene Talmadge associate editor. Managing editor is Bill Kimbrough, the governor's son-in-law, who combines the job with his law practice.

Kimbrough's law practice suffered recently when The Statesman began the job of publishing the name of every person in each of Georgia's 159 counties who was receiving public assistance. Size of the issues jumped from four to eight to 10 pages as Talmadge fought against time to publicize every pensioner before the Federal government could make good its threat to cut off assistance funds.

In addition to political news the paper carries stories of general interest to farmers, and occasionally verse memorializing the exploits of the governor.

The columns of the paper, like the administration, stress the virtues of economy and the simple way of life. The Statesman is against taxes.

"When you enact laws of burdensome taxes and restrictions that destroy or endanger private business, it is just as destructive as tornado or lightning. It will make your country dry up. It will stifle ambition in our boys and girls. The people of Georgia cannot stand any more taxes. I have never approved a bill raising taxes in my life, and I hope that I will never have to do this," the governor wrote in January.

Business, which then was ready to leave the state in fear of what the legislature might do to it, quickly returned to normalcy.

With the retirement of pressing state debts the governor's thoughts turned to things pastoral. He wrote of the tragedy of youth in a mill village, and urged decentralization of the industry to make living conditions more pleasant.

Bulgarian Entry Into War Against Russia Rumored In Europe

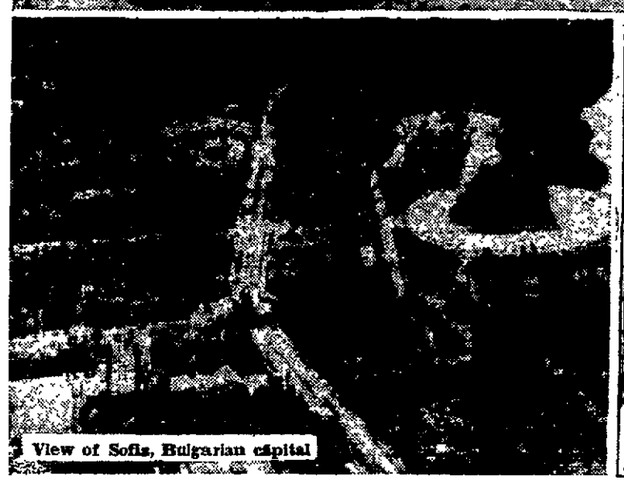
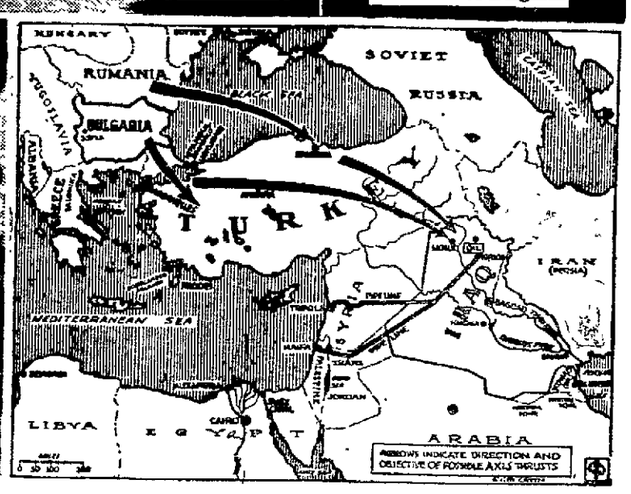
Tsar Boris of Bulgaria



View of Sofia, Bulgarian capital



Rumors have been flooding from Europe that Bulgaria is preparing to enter the war officially on the side of Nazi Germany to aid in the attack on Soviet Russia. The reports say that Tsar Boris and his government have been considering Nazi offers to share in the gains if Bulgarian armed forces join in the fighting. The map, lower right, shows possible Axis moves through Turkey to the oil field of Iraq, now under control of Allied forces, if Bulgaria should enter the war.

SIX HOMES ON BUILDING LIST

City Issues Permits to Erect Residence Costing $32,850, $15,000 Warehouse.

Building permits for the construction of six private homes at a total cost of $32,850 and a storage room for $15,000 were issued at the Municipal building yesterday.

The Home Materials company has been given a permit to construct a fireproof storage room on Newman street at the rear of their supply yard.

Permits for private residences were given Frank A. Ott to build a five-room home at 460 West Sixth street for $4,500; C. C. Constance, seven-room home, 642 Coleman road, $7,500, William G. Auer, four-room home, 51 Grasmere avenue, $3,750; Fred Schmitt, six-room home, 425 Overlook avenue, $6,300 Lloyd Dillon five-room home 343 Poplar street $4,800; and Anton Betz, six-room home, 591 Sloans avenue, $6,000

Service-Safety Director C. M Cratton issued an order requesting all contractors to post their building permit cards in clear view at the front of the houses. Because of the great number of homes being built, persons installing utility service such as gas or electric, have been unable to find the homes to install service.

Applicants in the Mansfield district were Jonathan W. Masters, Mt Gilead, and Olive G. McMillan, Columbus

Harry G. Dotson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Dotson, Mansfield, passed the examination for a post in the Ashland district office. Ivan M. Eshelman, Ashland, was the other successful applicant for a job at Ashland.

Appointments will be made soon from the lists of eligible applicants. The four in the Mansfield and Ashland districts qualified for Grade 2 posts which pay from $105 to $135 a month.

The civil service commission said 93 per cent of those examined qualified in Grade 2 and 88 per cent passed the tests in Grade 1.

REPORTS THEFT

Dr D A Weir, 143 Parkwood boulevard, reported to police yesterday that $30 worth of articles had been stolen from his car while it was parked in his garage Sunday night.

Dr. Weir said that both the car and garage were unlocked and that a $22 photographic light meter, a $5 raincoat and a pair of $5 sun-glasses were missing

A GOOD SAMARITAN

FIRTHCLIFFE, N Y. — (AP) — Awakened by a banging on the back porch of her home, Miss Marion Bigler went out to ascertain the cause. In the dark she saw a small animal, its head caught in a glass jar. Miss Bigler grasped the jar in one hand, the animal in the other, and freed it. It was a skunk.

WAGES TO RISE.

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. —(U.P.)— Arizona Navajo Indians' wages will be increased from last year's $150,000 to more than $1,000,000 during 1941, according to E. R. Fryer, superintendent of the Navajo reservation. The increase in wages will come from work on national defense projects.

HEAR LORAIN COUNTY JUDGE TALK ON JOHNNY APPLESEED

Celebrating the 140th anniversary of the planting of the first apple tree in Ohio by John (Johnny Appleseed) Chapman, pupils of three Mansfield schools will hear a talk Friday by Judge Guy B. Findley of Elyria, Gordon H Ensminger, celebration chairman, announced today.

Findley, a Loram county common pleas court judge, is scheduled to speak at Mansfield Senior high school at 10.30 a. m., Johnny Appleseed junior high at 1:30 p .m. and John Simpson junior high at 2 30 p. m.

His talk, said Ensminger, will deal with legends and histories concerning Chapman

Beside serving as common pleas judge, Findley is the president of the Ohio Forestry association.

Meanwhile Anna Long Onstodt, speaking for apple growers associations, said that each pupil would receive a free apple from the associations on Friday.

"Instead of the teachers getting apples," she said, "the pupils will receive them this time."

Glen Rohleder, Senior high principal, and H. J. Dotson, principal of John Simpson, both stated that aside from the Findley talk they were not planning any other activities relating to the celebration.

However, at Johnny Appleseed junior high school George W. Harmony, principal, said pupils in his school were receiving special meals in the school cafeteria all this week stressing the use of apples

JUDGE GUY B. FINDLEY

The Women's Relief corps, he continued, will present 21 American flags to the school at the assemblies.

Three by five feet in size, these flags will be hung in Appleseed school rooms.

Aside from the school celebrations, the Martin Hardware company is aiding the committee present menetoes of Chapman's life by loaning it the use of one of its store windows for a display.

A proclamation by Gov. John W. Bricker naming this week as Johnny Appleseed week and bills of sale signed by Chapman while he was in the Mansfield vicinity are shown.

Two trees pictured in the News-Journal Sunday edition came from a Chapman nursery. Bills of sale for these trees are displayed in the window along with a letter written 30 years ago by the New York chapter of the Johnny Appleseed association

County schools will hold their Johnny Appleseed observance Friday morning. Special assemblies have been planned for 9 a. m. in each of the county's nine buildings, according to Supt. Boyd Robinson.

Robinson said that Dr John W Stockwell of Philadelphia, founder of the Undenominational Radio Church of the Air, would be available for an appearance at Madison school on that date and that negotiations are now underway to have him speak at the Johnny Appleseed assembly.

NURSE RESIGNS

Mrs. Dorothy Bell to Leave Staff, New One Named.

Resignation of Mrs Dorothy Garrison Bell, a member of the Mansfield Visiting Nurses' association for the past two years, was announced today by Marjorie L. Palmer, director of nurses for the group.

Mrs. Bell will conclude her services at the end of this month and will be succeeded by Mrs. Mary Huber Wilkinson, who was selected at a recent meeting of the association's directors.

Mrs. Huber was a member of the Visiting Nurses' staff from February, 1936 to June, 1938. For the last two years she has been doing private nursing service.

Mrs. Bell has been on the staff almost three years. She is a graduate of nurses' training school at White Cross hospital in Columbus.

Mrs. Huber was graduated from St. Thomas hospital in Akron where she received her early training

J. A. C.'S MEET

The Mansfield Junior Association of Commerce will hold its regular weekly meeting at 9 p. m. Wednesday in the Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

Committee reports on the state board meeting of J. A. C. will be heard, as well as other committee reports.

O. K. PROJECT

County commissioners yesterday approved the construction of the Settlement East ditch in Sharon Township following an assessment hearing at the courthouse.

The project will cost $1,300 with approximately 25 property owners in the area drained by the ditch sharing the expense. The county will next week seek bids on the project.

ZOO GETS ALBINO FROG

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — The Philadelphia Zoo has come in possession of one of the rarest of all animals, an albino frog. The pure white jumper was found in the Pocono mountains and if biologists' estimates are correct he is one in 10,000,000.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THE FINE CAR WITH THE LOW PRICE—GENERAL MOTORS' MASTERPIECE

ANNOUNCING THE NEW 1942 Pontiac Sixes AND Eights*

Proud To Be Doing Our Part

Pontiac is doing its part for National Defense by building a new type of rapid-fire cannon for the United States Navy. Two plants, covering 426,123 square feet of floor space, have been devoted to the manufacture of these cannon. Thousands of craftsmen have been trained for the highly technical machines. This means building fewer cars—but Pontiac places defense work ahead of everything else.

- Pontiac Triple-Cushioned Ride—even further improved—is still yours in 1942.
- New Unisteel Bodies by Fisher equal in quality—even exceed in beauty those of any previous Pontiacs.
- Pistons and all vital engine parts are unchanged for 1942.
- Travel of the gearshift lever has been reduced 30%.
- Gas and oil economy has not been sacrificed.
- Front wheel brakes have been increased in size.

*ONLY $25 MORE FOR AN EIGHT IN ANY MODEL!

SURPRISINGLY ADVANCED in style and luxury, the new Pontiac Sixes or Eights for 1942 today come sweeping into the spotlight—refreshingly new in appearance, but still the same, fine, faithful Pontiacs in time-tried quality.

Two series of new Pontiacs include ten widely varied models—among them a streamlined Sedan Coupe in the lower-priced series.

New features are many. And in every instance, they represent actual improvement resulting from progress in design. We invite you to come in now to give these new Pontiacs your most thorough and critical inspection. You will find Pontiac today, more than ever, the Fine Car with the Low Price!

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1941

It seems that everything must be sacrificed to defense—except politics.

Answering a frequent question: Explosion of a car of dynamite in the Crestline railroad yards was Nov. 1, 1903; the Shelby bridge disaster was July 4, 1898.

With Cincinnati out of the running, Ohio baseball fans can take a rather disattached attitude toward the race between the Dodgers and the Cardinals for the National league pennant—even to the extent of commenting, "May the better team win!"

When Unity Is Most Urgent

NOTHING should be permitted, at this time, to influence any American citizen against complete co-operation with this nation's defense and aid program, for which there must be even greater unification of sentiment and effort than has thus far been evidenced.

Several national figures of the Wheeler, Nye and Lindbergh type, are doing their utmost to prevent unified support of the position that has been taken by the United States against the Axis powers, but it may be doubted if the full weight of the isolationist group, in its preachment of disunity, is as disturbing as the material being presented in the series of articles which President Roosevelt has written for Collier's, the third of which is in the current issue.

The first two of these articles dealt largely with Mr. Roosevelt's stubborn and discredited Supreme Court fight in 1937 and gave opportunity for derogatory comments on a majority of the court membership at that time—all with the Roosevelt assurance of personal infallibility.

The third discusses Mr. Roosevelt's intervention in the congressional primaries of 1938, which, he says, "was slurringly referred to, by those who were opposed to liberalism, as a 'purge'."

This, it will be recalled, was a controversy entirely within his own party—in which he believed that he was completely right and that his opponents were completely wrong.

Just why President Roosevelt should choose this particular time to tear open scarcely healed political sores, and to re-direct public notice to some of his most controversial domestic policies, is difficult to understand.

It is not unified—or even majority—support of President Roosevelt's court packing, primary purge, NRA, return of liquor, or New Deal policies in general, that is now being sought. Those accomplishments or failures are in the past and should be put aside, at least temporarily, while the American people as a whole unite to meet one of the greatest crises in the nation's history.

Readers of the series of articles in Collier's will do well to consider them as products of Franklin D. Roosevelt, egoist extraordinary, rather than charging them against him as president of the United States and commander in chief of the nation's military forces.

The plea for unity is in support of the international policies of the United States government, under leadership of President Roosevelt—to the end that this nation may escape, insofar as possible, the horrors of warfare now being visited upon many of the peoples of the world.

Ideal City For Conventions

MANSFIELD'S experience last week in satisfactorily taking care of thousands of visitors, here for conventions and conferences, strengthens belief that the information should be more widely heralded over the state that this is an ideal city in which to hold state and district conventions, and other meetings of various sorts.

Extremely big cities have their disadvantages as meeting places and many of the smaller cities do not have facilities to entertain as large crowds as are sometimes brought together on these occasions.

Mansfield is readily accessible from all parts of the state and with active local representation in practically all organizations it appears that this is a phase of community effort to which even more attention might well be given.

When Nature Puts On a Show

NO LESS interesting than the great aurora borealis display over most of the United States the other night was what people thought of it. From the eager inquiries at newspaper offices it was evident that citizens in general cherished a lot of curious folklore and superstition about such matters. The telephone switchboard people were saying "northern lights, northern lights, northern lights" as fast as they could, for hours, but that explanation didn't satisfy the public.

Nature herself, many argued, couldn't produce such an incredible sight. Some thought it was people playing tricks with big searchlights. Some thought it was the reflection of the shooting in Europe. Some thought the world was coming to an end. Some had a notion that it was the army experimenting with a new chemical. Some suspected Hitler and his dive-bombers. Some thought it might be military searchlight drill. Some suspected the presence of German airships signalling each other. Some believed it portended America's entry into the war.

The plain facts of such a phenomenon are weird enough. Scientists have soberly explained that it comes from whirling storms in the sun, so vast in this case that they covered an area 140,000 miles in diameter, shooting their electrical waves through about 90,000,000 miles of empty space, wildly exciting and electrifying layers of thin air perhaps 100 miles above the earth.

Another Unhappy Traitor

UNEASY lies the head of a Quisling. The Norwegian who has given his name to the current type of national betrayal in Europe is represented now as in a dire state of mind and nerves. There are rumors that he recently tried to kill himself. An escaped Norwegian newspaper man says:

"Quisling has the look of a haunted man and his eyes have a fanatical glare. Neither he nor his wife can sleep without narcotics. Three of his fellow-puppets have tried to commit suicide, and the fourth has left Norway for the Russian front because he could no longer bear the ostracism of his comrades."

Judas also was quite unhappy afterward. The Benedict Arnolds of history all found that the business didn't pay.

THE LIFE AND DEATH STRUGGLE

Listen World!

Campus Tragedy

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'S small and roundish—looks like one of those young tykes who come whooping into the kitchen when school's out, looting the doughnut jar, polishing off the lemonade. Ought, by rights, to be perched on the table, swinging sunburned shins . . . apple in one hand, cookie in the other.

But there were no apples in Ann Marie Hanssen's hands when she sat before the Judge the other day. They lay empty in her lap And those who glimpsed them, turned quickly away. For they were seeing something which did not bear remembering.

They were seeing the shadows of two dead bodies. Ann Marie's own, babies, strangled by her own hands, after she bore them, out of wedlock—a year apart.

"But what possessed her?"

Life possessed her—and life can run at flood fury when you're 20 and tasting, for the first time, the fun, freedom and forbidden fruit of campus life. So it ran for Ann Marie, two years ago, as she signed up for her course at California's state college in San Diego.

Yes—some of it was certainly surprising. Plenty to college life that you didn't learn out of a book! But she wasn't a kid any more, she assured herself. Girls knew how to take care of themselves, nowadays. And what harm was there in a little petting? After all, you're only young once. You had to have some fun . . . the fellows would drop you pronto if you started being difficult. And so-o—.

The rest of it? All the world knows that story by now. Knows how young Ann Marie bore her babies alone, in a nightmare of fear and pain—killing them both before they'd barely drawn breath. Now she was standing before Judge Kelly, while a horrified state listened to her revelations.

According to her testimony, Ann Marie claims that she was influenced to kiss by lectures which she heard in her own classrooms . . . Lectures which, she says, not only discussed but condoned trial marriages and promiscuous sex relations "in which about 80 per cent of the women students indulged," according to one speaker.

Judge Kelly doesn't believe that charge and most of the faculty indignantly deny that any instructor ever "tacitly sanctioned such things" But Dr. Bernice Stone, director of health instruction at San Diego college, has astounded court and public alike by declaring:

"I THINK A CERTAIN AMOUNT OF 'NECKING'—THAT IS, KISSING AND HUGGING—IS ABSOLUTELY NORMAL FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS."

Meaning, one presumes, that such emotional craving is natural during campus years. It is—but that's no reason for including it in the college curriculum. There are many urges, equally NATURAL, which we've ruled out of our civilized credo or confined within civilized restrictions Lying, stealing, cruelty, even murder — all these acts are NATURAL, NORMAL AND OFTEN HIGHLY SATISFYING . . . TO SAVAGES. But that's why we have colleges—

THAT OUR CHILDREN MAY RISE ABOVE THE JUNGLE CODE . . . MAY RECEIVE THE MOST VALUABLE TRAINING EDUCATION CAN BESTOW—TRAINING IN SELF-CONTROL.

Never has youth faced a period of greater temptation and bewilderment than it does today. It is unthinkable that a woman of Dr. Stone's intelligence and power should take a stand which is found to increase the difficulties and destroy safeguards of sentiment and tradition which the race has spent thousands of years in building. Granted, morbid prudishness may prove as dangerous as promiscuity. We should learn the truth about our bodies, should delight in their beauty and power, should welcome and reverence marriage.

BUT THAT DOES NOT MEAN TURNING OUR STATE CAMPUSES INTO CATTLE CORRALS . . . OR ENCOURAGING OUR CHILDREN TO MAJOR IN INDECENCY!

Winning War on Billboards.

The battle to rescue the American countryside from obliterating billboards promises victory to their enemies, according to Albert S. Bard of the National Roadside council. Writing in the National Municipal Review, he cites the fact that, in six years, twenty-two states have passed laws restricting outdoor advertising. "The interests striving to use the highways for selfish profit," he says, "are on the defensive."

"The most dramatic sector recently," he continues, "has been Pennsylvania. It needed to be: a motorist on the Lancaster pike saw more immense billboards than rolling hills, and, to visit Gettysburg, he worked through acres of advertising.

"But some years ago the women started a spirited campaign. Finally, because of the sheer, unrelenting pressure, things moved. The state department of commerce took a hand to help eliminate unsightly advertising from certain mountain areas. The billboard industry, the oil companies and the hotels saw the handwriting on the wall and hastily joined in a "co-operative roadside improvement program"—Baltimore Sun.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"The White Man's Burden."

"What," inquires a reader, "is meant by the phrase 'the white man's burden'?"

The allusion is to the supposed responsibility of the white races for the welfare of the more backward ones

The author of the expression is Rudyard Kipling, and it was put in circulation by way of his poem, published in 1899, inspired by the new association between the United States and the Philippine Islands.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Former Hollywood Mogul Started Senate Investigation of the Movies

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Chief questions being asked of the senate's investigation of Hollywood are: Who is really behind it? Who persuaded a sub-committee to proceed with an unauthorized probe?

The senators who introduced the resolution, Nye and Clark, admit that they haven't seen the movies which they are critizing. Yet they are armed with a great mass of data which someone must have dug up for them.

The other members of the sub-committee also admit they haven't seen the alleged propaganda pictures. And the senate as a whole rejected the investigation and declined to appropriate any money for it.

But despite all this, five senators are going ahead anyway, spending considerable money and even more time to stage a solemn investigation of Hollywood.

Senators are famous for their laziness. They don't go looking for extra work. Obviously someone coked them up.

The answer to this mystery has for some time been in the hands of Wendell Willkie, counsel to the picture industry. But he has no right to cross-examination, and so far this has prevented his making public the solution.

However, he has significant evidence that for several weeks the America First committee has had a group of research people busy in New York studying the movies and radio programs. They have been working under the direction of John T. Flynn, head of the New York America First committee. And one research worker hired to listen in on radio programs was Guy Juneman, a henchman of Joe McWilliams, Christian Front leader in New York. These were the people who dug up part of the dope for the senators.

Hollywood Ghosts.

BUT even more important than this New York group has been the little group of ghosts in Los Angeles, who helped inspire the present senate investigation. Its members include:

G. Allison Phelps—Los Angeles radio commentator and author of the "Tower of Babel," a booklet scathingly critical of Hollywood.

Winfield Sheehan—husband of the famous opera singer, Jeritza. Sheehan was a producer for Shirley Temple and Will Rogers.

Sheehan had some lucky breaks—and some unlucky ones. He was lucky enough to be with 20th Century and Fox just at the time Shirley Temple and Will Rogers were in their heyday. But on the other hand, he had no success whatsoever with Alice Faye, who went over big only after Sheehan left 20th Century.

Subsequently for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer he produced "Florian," supposed to be the story of his wife, Jeritza, with the plot laid in a Spanish riding school in Vienna. The film was a flop, and Sheehan has been down on Hollywood leaders ever since.

For more than a year these three men have been collaborating in attacks—some public, some behind the scenes—on the motion picture industry.

Most of the out-in-front fighting has been done by G. Allison Phelps in his daily broadcasts. However, the man behind him was Russell Mack (Mahoney) and the man behind Mack in turn was Winfield Sheehan.

Last summer G. Allison Phelps, the Los Angeles radio commentator, went to Washington. There he hung out at the office of isolationist Senator Reynolds, of North Carolina, and conferred at length with the isolationist senators who now have turned up on the sub-committee investigating motion pictures.

Returning to Los Angeles, Phelps boasted over the radio that he had accomplished big things in Washington. And sure enough, on August 1, Senator Clark, of Missouri, introduced a resolution demanding an investigation of Hollywood. Two days later, Phelps in his radio broadcast commented on the Clark resolution as follows:

"And now, friends, this is but the beginning. I wish I could read you the letters I have received within the last two weeks from certain senators bearing on the investigation. I wish I could read to you one telegram I received from Senator Charles W. Tobey (now on the investigating committee). This is but the forerunner of the congressional investigation of the entire motion picture industry."

Mr. Phelps had gone to town in Washington.

* * *

Here's the Lowdown.

REAL LOWDOWN on the alleged $100,000 fee Willkie is said to be getting from the movie industry is that he did not talk fee in advance. At first he refused to take the case because he hadn't time to prepare it, finally consented but said the fee would depend on how much time the hearing took. . . . Movie moguls have wisecracked that they might pay Willkie with the proceeds from one anti-Nazi propaganda film. If so he would get far more than $100,000. Contrary to the impression spread by the senate committee, these films make real dough. That, say the moguls, is why they produce them.

Isolationist senators gave it out that Nick Schenck, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, shunned an appearance before their committee. Schenck is probably the biggest force in Hollywood, produced "Escape" and some of the biggest money-makers among the anti-Nazi films. Actually he has been itching to get on the witness stand, but the senate committee stalled for time, allegedly to let Senator Curley Brooks go to the American Legion convention.

James Twohey's weekly Analysis of Newspaper Opinion shows that about 90 per cent of the newspaper editorials panned the senate for investigating the movies. . . . Ninety-three per cent of the newspapers also were critical of Lindbergh for blaming the trend to war on the Jews.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

FIRST thing OPM chiefs did when hard-boiled Price Administrator Leon Henderson became an OPM executive in the recent shake-up was to put under his jurisdiction the auto, paper pulp and machine tool industries, all subjects of hot controversy Henderson's reply was, "The tougher they are the better I like 'em." . . . Smoking is prohibited in the senate chamber but that doesn't prevent South Carolina's "Cotton Ed" Smith from enjoying his tobacco. He loads up with a huge wad and chews furiously during sessions, spitting carefully into a spittoon placed especially at his desk. . . . Although Floyd Oldham is a leading Wall Streeter, his strongest backers as head of the new OPM Division for Contract Distribution were inner circle New Dealers.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—In an era of bright good looks where model agencies have replaced the pony choruses of Broadway musical shows as springboards to fortune and fame for attractive young women, it is worthwhile to pay attention to a candid examination of the modeling profession by one of its most gifted pupils, Olga Malcova, whose book, "Wanted—Girl With Glamour," is an intelligent fascinating study of what the modeling world really is.

Certainly those well-built young girls around New York today prefer jobs as models to places in the line along Broadway. Not only is the remuneration more attractive, their chances of breaking out into the world of the theater and the films are greater.

* * *

I SHOULD think this would be an excellent thing for any girl contemplating modeling as a career to digest. Miss Malcova makes it clear that modeling is one of the most exacting of professions. The work is gruelling. There are a score of do's and dont's that must be observed. Conduct during off-hours, reputation, mannerisms, personality and tact—these make or break the individual and often spell the difference between the high salaried models and the girls who get nowhere.

Just what is the life of a New York model? . . . "She's down in the garment center, tumbling in and out of eighty costumes a day. . . . She's in the regal atmosphere of Fifth Avenue, swathed in spun gold and dream cloth . . . She's in a designer's studio long hours of the day to inspire the skilled fingers of artists in fabric and fancy . . . She's before a hundred cameras while 10,000 watts burn fiercely down on her from a dozen lights . . . She's an innocent if you believe her starry-eyed frankness, a sophisticate if you catch the sweep of her haughty silhouette . . . But to those who live in the model's room; to those whose fortunes are chartered in the agency's assignment office — she's just a wholesome girl whose back often aches, whose feet usually hurt and who, more times than not, crawls dead tired to bed at nine."

* * *

ANOTHER point to remember, as Miss Malcova points out, is that a figure like Paulette Goddard's and a face like Hedy Lamarr's and more oomph than Ann Sheridan's isn't essential to a successful career . . . You can be anything from size ten to 16 . . . Square shoulders are an asset . . . If you are photogenic, so much the better . . . Vitality, warmth, aliveness and a "feeling" for clothes are important.

Modeling falls into two broad categories, retail and wholesale. . . . When you say wholesale, you mean all manufactured clothing from foundation garments to shoes, gloves and furs. Retail means modeling millinery, corsets, sweaters and outer garments.

Fees in New York range generally from $5 to $15 an hour. A few, a very few, command as high as $25 an hour . . . The best known agencies are the Powers agency and the Conover agency . . .

In any case, it's an idea. It's also work. New York has many successful models, and there is always room for new ones . . . Titan hair, they tell me, is in demand by color photographers. . . . So if you're a red head, fine. . . . But blondes and brunettes are the rule.

Daily Bible Thought

And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.—Isa. 2:4.

A Farmer's Diary

At the Street Fair

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WENT with the two oldest boys to the free street fair, in our village. They were eager. Their evening milking and feeding were quickly done, without prompting. They scarcely tasted their supper in their hurry to get started. Going out to the car, they pulled at my arms and coat to help me along faster, for if I didn't hurry we'd be too late to see anything.

The village teemed with excitement. Every available parking space was taken and cars lined both sides of the street. Downtown, the business section was roped off for displays and carnival attractions. We finally found a place just vacated, only a short block from the band stand where a hillbilly orchestra was playing and a caller was calling an old-time dance. Almost before I had stopped, both boys were out and part way up the alley. They danced about impatiently until I caught up.

We stood, for a little, and watched the dancers swing their partners and all promenade. Then the galloping saddled steeds of the merry-go-round attracted my young companions, while far down the street the ferris wheel with its high line of moving lights and the people calmly riding above the tallest buildings was still more wonderful. We moved that way, stopping to watch and listen to shrill cries of salesmen at the salt water taffy stand, the throwing with baseballs contest, the peanut wagon, the popcorn vendor.

"I wish you'd take us on that big wheel, Daddy—and sit right between us," said the six-year-old. So I bought two tickets, and the oldest boy proudly bought his own, with a dime of his pickle money. We were near enough to get the second seat. The bar in front of us was fastened well, but still the boys suggested I'd better look to be sure nobody had tampered with the fastener. We began to climb—higher and higher, with each loaded seat. "Put your arm around me, Daddy," suggested the littler boy, "I'm shivery." And when we reached the highest point, "Gee, hold me tighter yet! If I'd fall down on top of that roof, I'd be there all night. This is plenty high to suit me."

Finally the great wheel was loaded and when we descended, going more and more rapidly, he held his breath and partly hid beneath my coat. "Daddy," he wondered, between short gasps, "Why does it hurry so? We aren't going anywhere—I'll bet we'll get off right where we got on!"

Back on solid ground, I noticed a neighbor watching us with a queer smile. He is older than I. His boys are all grown-up. I challenged him.

"I don't see what you're here for," I said. "Now I had to come, to bring these boys!"

"I happen to be on the fair board," he declared blandly. "It takes fellows like me to get up fairs that fellows like you can't stay away from!"

Which seems fair enough!

GEORGIA READS RUGGED VIEWS OF TALMADGE

Governor States Policies In Own Weekly Newspaper.

ATLANTA, Ga. —(U.P.)—When Eugene Talmadge, governor of Georgia, speaks ex cathedra, he uses not the regular press of the state but his own paper. The Statesman.

Talmadge founded the paper eight years ago during his first term as governor. He used it as a convenient method of getting his undiluted message to the people, and in or out of office has maintained it since.

Weekly publication of The Statesman is an event probably without parallel in any other state. Politicians grab it to read the governor's two column, front page, signed editorial. Sometimes it's only a homely soliloquy on the beauties of a fox race, or a report on his farming operations, but often it's an unequivocal statement of Talmadge policy.

The public, and 15,000 people pay the $1 a year subscription fee, take it home to read and dig out nuggets of Talmadge's horny-handed, both feet on the ground, philosophy.

Occasionally The Statesman reprints stories from Georgia weeklies and dailies. Regularly the state's weeklies and dailies reprint stories from The Statesman.

Heavily flavored with the Talmadge personality, the paper's masthead announces that The People are the editors, and Eugene Talmadge associate editor. Managing editor is Bill Kimbrough, the governor's son-in-law, who combines the job with his law practice.

Kimbrough's law practice suffered recently when The Statesman began the job of publishing the name of every person in each of Georgia's 159 counties who was receiving public assistance. Size of the issues jumped from four to eight to 10 pages as Talmadge fought against time to publicize every pensioner before the Federal government could make good its threat to cut off assistance funds.

In addition to political news the paper carries stories of general interest to farmers, and occasionally verse memorializing the exploits of the governor.

The columns of the paper, like the administration, stress the virtues of economy and the simple way of life. The Statesman is against taxes.

"When you enact laws of burdensome taxes and restrictions that destroy or endanger private business, it is just as destructive as tornado or lightning. It will make your country dry up. It will stifle ambition in our boys and girls. The people of Georgia cannot stand any more taxes. I have never approved a bill raising taxes in my life, and I hope that I will never have to do this," the governor wrote in January.

Business, which then was ready to leave the state in fear of what the legislature might do to it, quickly returned to normalcy.

With the retirement of pressing state debts the governor's thoughts turned to things pastoral. He wrote of the tragedy of youth in a mill village, and urged decentralization of the industry to make living conditions more pleasant.

Bulgarian Entry Into War Against Russia Rumored In Europe

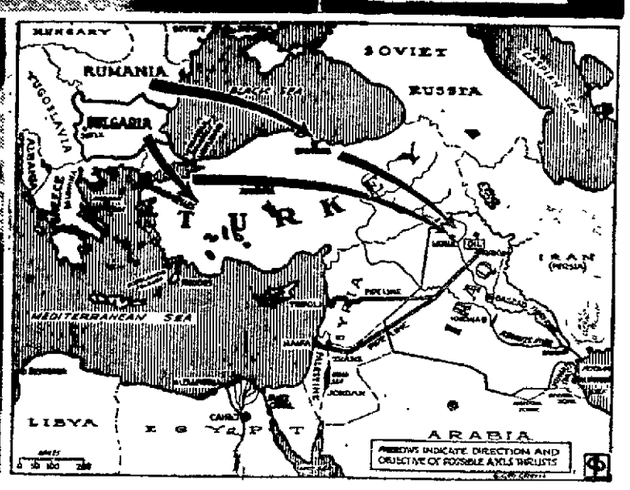
Tsar Boris of Bulgaria

View of Sofia, Bulgarian capital



Rumors have been flooding from Europe that Bulgaria is preparing to enter the war officially on the side of Nazi Germany to aid in the attack on Soviet Russia. The reports say that Tsar Boris and his government have been considering Nazi offers to share in the gains if Bulgarian armed forces join in the fighting. The map, lower right, shows possible Axis moves through Turkey to the oil field of Iraq, now under control of Allied forces, if Bulgaria should enter the war.

SIX HOMES ON BUILDING LIST

City Issues Permits to Erect Residence Costing $32,850, $15,000 Warehouse.

Building permits for the construction of six private homes at a total cost of $32,850 and a storage room for $15,000 were issued at the Municipal building yesterday.

The Home Materials company has been given a permit to construct a fireproof storage room on Newman street at the rear of their supply yard.

Permits for private residences were given Frank A Ott to build a five-room home at 460 West Sixth street for $4,500, C. C. Constance, seven-room home, 642 Coleman road, $7,500, William G Auer, four-room home, 54 Grasmere avenue, $3,750; Fred Schmitt, six-room home, 425 Overlook avenue, $6300, Lloyd Dillon, five-room home, 343 Poplar street, $4,800; and Arton Betz, six-room home, 591 Sloans avenue, $6,000.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton issued an order requesting all contractors to post their building permit cards in clear view at the front of the houses Because of the great number of homes being built, persons installing utility service such as gas or electric, have been unable to find the homes to install service.

PASS EXAMS

Four Applicants Successful In Tests For State Job Here.

Four applicants, including one from Mansfield, had passed civil service examinations today, qualifying them for jobs as office interviewer in the employment service of the bureau of unemployment compensation.

Applicants in the Mansfield district were Jonathan W. Masters, Mt Gilead, and Olive G. McMillan, Columbus

Harry G. Dotson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Dotson, Mansfield, passed the examination for a post in the Ashland district office. Ivan M. Eshelman, Ashland, was the other successful applicant for a job at Ashland.

Appointments will be made soon from the lists of eligible applicants. The four in the Mansfield and Ashland districts qualified for Grade 2 posts which pay from $105 to $135 a month.

The civil service commission said 93 per cent of those examined qualified in Grade 2 and 88 per cent passed the tests in Grade 1.

HEAR LORAIN COUNTY JUDGE TALK ON JOHNNY APPLESEED

Celebrating the 140th anniversary of the planting of the first apple tree in Ohio by John (Johnny Appleseed) Chapman, pupils of three Mansfield schools will hear a talk Friday by Judge Guy B. Findley of Elyria, Gordon H Ensminger, celebration chairman, announced today.

Findley, a Lorain county common pleas court judge, is scheduled to speak at Mansfield Senior high school at 10:30 a. m, Johnny Appleseed junior high at 1:30 p m and John Simpson junior high at 2:30 p m

His talk, said Ensminger, will deal with legends and histories concerning Chapman

Beside serving as common pleas judge, Findley is the president of the Ohio Forestry association

Meanwhile Anna Long Orstodt, speaking for apple growers associations, said that each pupil would receive a free apple from the associations on Friday.

JUDGE GUY B. FINDLEY

"Instead of the teachers getting apples," she said, "the pupils will receive them this time."

Glen Rohleder, Senior high principal, and H. J. Dotson, principal of John Simpson, both stated that aside from the Findley talk they were not planning any other activities relating to the celebration.

However, at Johnny Appleseed junior high school George W. Harmony, principal, said pupils in his school were receiving special meals in the school cafeteria all this week stressing the use of apples.

Three by five feet in size, these flags will be hung in Appleseed school rooms.

Aside from the school celebrations, the Martin Hardware company is aiding the committee present menetoes of Chapman's life by loaning it the use of one of its store windows for a display.

A proclamation by Gov. John W. Bricker naming this week as Johnny Appleseed week and bills of sale signed by Chapman while he was in the Mansfield vicinity are shown.

Two trees pictured in the News-Journal Sunday edition came from a Chapman nursery. Bills of sale for these trees are displayed in the window along with a letter written 30 years ago by the New York chapter of the Johnny Appleseed association

County schools will hold their Johnny Appleseed observance Friday morning Special assemblies have been planned for 9 a m in each of the county's nine buildings according to Supt. Boyd Robinson.

Robinson said that Dr John W. Stockwell of Philadelphia, founder of the Undenominational Radio Church of the Air, would be available for an appearance at Madison school on that date and that negotiations are now underway to have him speak at the Johnny Appleseed assembly.

REPORTS THEFT

Dr D. A Weir, 143 Parkwood boulevard, reported to police yesterday that $30 worth of articles had been stolen from his car while it was parked in his garage Sunday night.

Dr. Weir said that both the car and garage were unlocked and that a $22 photographic light meter, a $5 raincoat and a pair of $5 sun-glasses were missing.

A GOOD SAMARITAN

FIRTHCLIFFE, N Y. — (AP) — Awakened by a banging on the back porch of her home, Miss Marion Bigler went out to ascertain the cause. In the dark she saw a small animal, its head caught in a glass jar. Miss Bigler grasped the jar in one hand, the animal in the other, and freed it. It was a skunk.

WAGES TO RISE.

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. —(U.P.)— Arizona Navajo Indians' wages will be increased from last year's $150.000 to more than $1,000,000 during 1941, according to E. R. Fryer, superintendent of the Navajo reservation. The increase in wages will come from work on national defense projects.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FIRST IN FEDERATION SERIES TO BE GIVEN

Mrs. Harold Andrews of Ashland Opens Program Series Friday for Tea at Women's Club; Lectures at Theaters.

MRS. HAROLD E. ANDREWS, instructor in the English department at Ashland college, will open the series of programs for the Mansfield Federation of Women to be held this fall and winter. Directors of the organization will be hostesses on Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the Women's Club for the first program and tea. At that time Mrs. Andrews, prominent lecturer in this community, will begin the trilogy on "Time Tested Books." The first to be reviewed is "Success In Failure."

Wife of a Presbyterian minister, Mrs. Andrews has been closely associated with church and club activities in Ashland, Mansfield and surrounding towns. For several years she has been in charge of the Delphian club study series in Ashland and among her popular talks are the Shakespearian series and "The Literary Approach to the Bible."

For many years members of the federation have been privileged to hear outstanding lecturers and reviewers during the program series. This year will be no exception for under the direction of Mrs. Charles Shafer, program chairman, an interesting and varied series has been arranged. As has been the custom for several years guest speakers present their topics at the local theaters through the courtesy of Warner Brothers. Change of meeting place from the Women's Club was arranged because of the large attendance.

Guest Speakers.

Gregor Ziemer, headmaster and dean of the American school in Berlin for the past 11 years, will speak at the meeting Thursday, Oct. 16, at 11 a. m. His subject will be "2010 Days of Hitler." Known for his first American broadcast of a Hitler speech to the United States, he has spent much time as a radio speaker and lecturer. Born in Michigan, he received much of his higher education in this country.

Lieut. Commander Carlos Fallon is scheduled to speak on Thursday, Nov. 27, at 11 a. m. at a local theater. His topic will be "A Good Neighbor Speaks for Himself." A Colombian naval officer who commanded his country's upper Amazon gunboat flotilla, he tells what South Americans really think of the good neighbor policy, fifth column activities, South American military preparation and will give a prediction of the future of the co-operating Americas.

Closing the 1941 season for the federation members will be a luncheon bridge party at the Women's Club on Thursday morning at 10:30 a. m. The first program for the new year will be presented at the Women's Club on Friday afternoon, Jan. 9, at 2:30 with Mrs. Andrews returning to speak on "The Quiet Ways of Life." This will be a business session, program and tea.

Illustrated Talk.

Sam Campbell, known as "The Philosopher of Forest," is to address the members at a local theater on Jan. 22, at 11 a. m. An illustrated talk on "Behind the Scenes In Nature" consists of natural color motion pictures of wild creatures and natural wonders, with the narrator weaving together scenes made in the depths of the North woods, the great canyons and mountains of the west.

Another highlight of the series will be the talk by Edna Lee Booker, far eastern correspondent for the International News Service and feature writer for the China Press. Her topic will be "News Is My Job" and will be presented on Thursday morning, Feb. 5, at 11 a. m. She was one of the first American-born newspaperwomen to serve as a war correspondent. Except for brief intervals when she has traveled in Europe, Africa, the Dutch East Indies and Australia, she has lived in China.

Two meetings are scheduled for March. The first is to be another morning bridge followed by luncheon at the club house. Members will meet there on Thursday morning, March 5, at 10:30 a. m. Ella Enslow is to be the speaker at the final theater program on Thursday morning, March 26, at 11 a. m. A short time ago a series of articles appeared in the Saturday Evening Post entitled "Schoolhouse In the Foothills," written by Miss Enslow. It is on this subject that she will address federation members.

Concluding the varied programs will be the annual federation meeting and tea at the club house on April 14 at 2:30 p. m. at which time Mrs. Andrews will speak on "An Industrious Chronicler."

Legion Group Hears Catlett Speak Monday

John Catlett, state representative, was the guest speaker Monday evening at the regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary held at the Legion home. He spoke to the group on "Your Will." Mrs. Samuel Harkins, president, conducted the business session. Reports on the national convention held last week in Milwaukee, Wis., were given by Mrs. Hollis Moorehead and Mrs. Howard Newman.

Annual reports of the year's standing committees were given. Child welfare committee members reported having provided for 126 children during the year, bought 2,090 quarts of milk, 108 school lunches and furnished children with glasses, shoes and clothing. Buffet luncheon was served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Karl Kahl, social chairman.

Installation of officers will be held at the next meeting to be held Oct. 13 at the Legion home. Mrs. Walter Beckley will be the installing officer. Mrs. R. O. Maumee will serve as social chairman for this session. Members of the Junior Auxiliary will hold a wiener roast Oct. 4 at 2:30 p. m. at Middle park.

CLUB RESUMES

Complete Arrangements For State Garden Meet

Last minute plans are being made by busy members of the Mansfield Garden clubs in preparation for the state meeting of the Garden Club of Ohio which opens tomorrow morning at 9:30 a. m. Three hundred and fifty delegates have sent their reservations for the one day session which opens at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Mrs. Louis J. Ott, jr., is general chairman of arrangements and will be assisted by the presidents of the local clubs and committee chairmen.

Election of officers will be held at the noon meeting following the luncheon at the hotel ballroom. During the morning program and discussion periods will take place at four different sessions. The presidents' meeting will be in charge of the state head, Mrs. William Moeller, and will take place in the club room at the hotel. A garden center lecture will be held at the Mansfield Garden Center headquarters at the Public Library, beginning at 10 a. m. and at the same time there will be another lecture at the Library on "School Gardens." In room 226 at the hotel there will be a talk on "Programs and Projects."

Another series of programs are scheduled for 11:15 a. m. In the club room at the hotel there will be a lecture on "Flower Shows," and in room 226 one on "Horticulture." At the library during that hour there will be talks on "Birds and Their Value to Your Gardens," and "Conservation." Members have their choice of these subjects and will attend according to their own pleasure. Outstanding speakers have been obtained for these sessions.

During the afternoon delegates will visit lovely gardens in and near the city. All members are to see the gardens at Malabar, country home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bromfield, and also the grounds at Raemelton, home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Black.

The remainder of the afternoon may be spent in taking one of four tours of attractive gardens in Mansfield. The gardens chosen were selected because they best illustrate the various types of gardening and planting and are representative of all the Mansfield Garden clubs. Mrs. Charles Nail is chairman of the pilgrimages.

At 5:30 p. m. members will motor to the Raemelton Riding hall where an indoor garden has been arranged as a background for an informal buffet supper. Mrs. Roger Black is chairman of the supper arrangements and Mrs. Donald Black will be hostess. Transportation is in charge of Mrs. Tom Ford.

Attractive decorations and favors have been made for this meeting by the many local clubs. Mrs. H. J. Paulsen is in charge of the decoration for the luncheon session at the hotel, and Mrs. John Conard for the buffet supper at Raemelton.

BIBLE CLUB.

Bethel Bible club members met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert K. Miller, Westview boulevard. Twelve members and one guest, Mrs. N. F. Tesch, were in attendance. Mrs. William Linn led the devotional program on "We Would Follow Jesus, Our Lord." The lesson study on the book of Genesis was led by Mrs. R. K. Clark. Mrs. Ralph Bemiller, Glendale boulevard, will entertain the club at her home Oct. 13.

DIVISION MEETING.

Division Three of the United Presbyterian church will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. J. W. Rusk, 418 Sherman place. Mrs. Helen Melanson will serve as associate hostess.

HOSPITAL NOTES

WILLARD — Don C. Smith, a Baltimore and Ohio railway conductor, underwent an emergency appendectomy at Municipal hospital. His condition was reported to be satisfactory Monday.

The condition of Joe Sukola, 20, remains unchanged. He was seriously injured about the head Saturday night when he lost control of the car he was driving and it crashed into a telephone pole near Plymouth.

PARENTS OF SON

WILLARD—Mr. and Mrs. Dale McLaughlin of Greenwich are the parents of a son born at Municipal hospital Sept. 20. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Hayhurst of Greenwich.

CHILD INJURED

Social Session Held By Naomi White Shrine

Naomi White Shrine circle members met Monday afternoon at the Grotto hall for a business session and card games. Following the business which was conducted by the president, Mrs. Ruby Dye, contract and auction were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Rose Tamblyn and Mrs. Dolores Lamneck.

A covered-dish dinner was served 30 members at 6 p. m. Mrs. Norma Miller and her committee were in charge of the dinner. Miss Thelma B. Hursh, worthy high priestess of the Shrine, was in charge of the session which started at 7:30 p. m. Plans were made to hold a benefit card party in November at the Grotto hall. The next Shrine meeting will be held Sept. 29. Initiation of new candidates will be held at this session in charge of Miss Hursh.

Sorority Holds First Program Session Monday

Members of the Delta Kappa Gamma sorority held their first meeting of the year Monday evening at the Women's club. Plans for the year's program were discussed with Miss Leona Snyder announcing the topic of "The Teacher's Position In National Defense." Miss Helen Hartman, president, was the speaker for the evening, reporting on the national convention she attended in Minneapolis, Minn., in August. She also gave accounts of the International convention held at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Hostesses for the next meeting on Oct. 27 will be Misses Lucille Beattie, Pearl Danback, Winifred Black, Ruth Fenner and Reba Robinson. The session will take place at the Danback home, 223 South Franklin avenue.

Mrs. L. C. Smaltz Entertains Club

Mrs. L. C. Smaltz, 96 Stewart avenue, was hostess to members of the Child Guidance club for their first meeting of the fall season Monday evening. Twenty-two were in attendance to hear a program by Mrs. Charles Freehafer on "Standards and Expectancies" and "School and the Home" by Mrs. Harold Moore.

It was decided to spend one meeting each month sewing for the Red Cross and one for the Mansfield General hospital. At the close of the program a buffet luncheon was served with appointments in the fall color scheme. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 14 at the home of Mrs. G. P. Van Arnam, Heeln avenue.

Loveless Marriage Is Unwise

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A couple of weeks ago I had a proposal of marriage from a man who could give me a beautiful home and about everything else that goes with it. But I do not love him, and this is the reason why:

When I was 18 I went with a young man who was studying to be a lawyer. We had a wonderful friendship which lasted three years. Then it seemed to be that our going together might be a hindrance to him, and that it would be many years before he could marry.

Both our families agreed that we'd better part, which we did. Five years have passed and he has made good and is getting along very well in his chosen profession. He has never made any attempt to see me, though we live in the same city, nor has he been attentive to any other girl.

I've never been able to forget him. He always seems to be on my mind. Therefore, I don't think it would be honest to say "yes" to this second man. What do you think I ought to do?

IN DOUBT

You're very wise not to marry one man while you continue to think of another. Why don't you write the man with whom you went for three years a friendly little note and say that you'd like to see him again. It's probable that he still remembers you.

* * *

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young boy, deeply in love with a girl who says she's in love with me. My parents don't like her and they won't permit me to see her, so I have to slip off and see her on the sly. I've tried to get interested in other girls but I never have a good time with them.

My parents say if we get married secretly they will have the marriage annulled. We are both under age. Can my parents have the marriage annulled? P. C.

According to the law of your state, boys and girls who are under age cannot marry without the consent of their parents. So, if you were to marry this girl, your parents could have the marriage annulled. The sensible thing for both of you to do is to wait until you are older. Meanwhile, get a good job so that you will be able to support a wife properly.

* * *

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm very much in love with a girl who lives in a nearby town. I've shown her swell times, whenever I found it possible to "date" her, and very often she acts as if she's in love with me. But at other times, she treats me as if she cares nothing at all about me.

She's a puzzle to me and I can't understand her. Are all girls like this? FRANK

If all music were loud and sustained, the compositions would become monotonous. Don't you think it's that way with girls in love? Sometimes they're sweet, tender, devoted. Again they're coquettish, apparently indifferent and ready to run away from you—and that's only a few of their charming humors. I think your experience is that of almost every man in love.

If you really want to know how she feels about you, ask her. As in all other matters of life, there's nothing like frankness in love.

Oriental Type Popular In New Winter Fabrics

The fabrics shown throughout the collections were acclaimed for their great beauty, and very unusual and new weaves were shown. Celanese Creative Fabrics designed exclusively for the couture houses were well represented. Shimmering taffetas were combined with velvet. Crepes as soft as peachskin made daytime dresses in Persian pink, Arabian sea green, Maharajah Bronze, Arabesque gray, Oriental Purple, Arabian mid-night sky, and others. Some of the specially designed Milgrim fabrics show the reed mat weaving for which the Arabians are so famous. Finely figured taffetas, jacquards, heavy roshanara crepes, matelasse velvets, satin damasks, and beautiful laces, especially black, all added to the richness of the clothes.

A Swish to the Back.

Fira Benenson of Bonwit Teller's introduced her collection by calling special attention to the straight line plus the S-silhouette achieved by swish to the back of the skirt. This follows the narrow line, but adds the feminine frou-frou reminiscent of the days when bosoms were lifted, abdomens caved in and hips slightly rounded and tilted. The effect of all this is presented in jabots, lace collar frills, Elizabethan ruches which perk up the front of the dress under the chin, while the back gets its graceful S-curve with tucks, shirrings, and draping concentrated below the waistline, center-back. All this feminine froth is carried out in accessories, too. Simple town suits of broadcloth or velvet have scarfs of black paillettes. Muffs are made of real lace, tulle, or ostrich splashed with roses or bluebirds, for evening. Gloves of gold kid complement gold jewelry.

Gold for evening appeared time and time again in Celanese rayon slipper satin embroidered in amber-toned stones and gold thread, in soft chamois-like crepes and in velvet. In fact the gold touches were reminiscent of Victorian decor, and buttons and lapel-gadgets used such motifs as flowers under bell jars; gold fish swimming in their bowls; antique Venetian framed mirrors, Victorian heads, chessman, ducks, lots of wings and bows.

BISCUIT BRIGHTENERS

Add a few chopped figs or raisins to the dough the next time you make up biscuits. The family will welcome the change. Tiny ones, served hot and buttered, make delightful tid-bits for afternoon tea.

TOPS IN COFFEE CAKE

Honey, pecans and chopped raisins in equal portions make a grand top spread for coffee cake. Apply before baked.

To help prevent accidents, make sure that all electrical appliances are out of reach of the tub in a bathroom.

PATTERN 9666

Good news for the larger figure—a dress-with-bolero like Pattern 9666 by Marian Martin! One of those simple V-neck frocks you love so well has its own bolero that comes just to the waist. If your shoulders are too heavy, or your waistline a bit wide, this bolero has an unobtrusive way of slimming you down. The dress slims you, too, by graduated tucks at the front waistline, by the slender skirt panel, in front and the flattering gathered shoulders. Why not plan this practical frock in a new "V" printed crepe, with the bolero of contrast wool and lapels that match the frock? With the Sew Chart to help, you can have it finished in time for that luncheon!

Pattern 9666 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, dress, requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric; bolero, 1⅝ yards 39 inch fabric.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

It was my turn to catch my breath in dismay, utterly appalled at the task which my father was setting me, in a manner so matter-of-fact that it seemed nonchalant, almost unfeeling.

"You don't need to say it, Daughter," my father said, and I wondered if I imagined that his lips twitched ever so slightly. "I can imagine all the objections you would voice. But—" his voice was suddenly stern—"I am sure you will keep them back when I tell you that this co-operation on Mary's part—and on yours—may mean the difference between life and death to Marion."

Mary gave a frightened cry, and it was with difficulty that I repressed an echo of it.

"Oh! oh!" Mary wailed when she had caught her breath, "of course I'll do anything you say, no matter what happens."

"And I will do my best to make Noel see reason," I said, for I knew from the gravity of my father's words the manner that he was not exaggerating Marion's danger.

"And as I happen to know that your best is very good, my darling," my father said, "I shall have no qualms concerning Noel, nor do I think either of you need to be uneasy about him.

A Witness at Hand.

"Now, there is one thing more," he went on briskly. "For your own protection, Mary, and in order to have another witness to any happening which may be of value to us, I wish you could arrange to have a third person accompany you and Redfield on these dinner engagements. I don't suppose Noel—"

"Out of the question, Father," I said firmly, for at that intimation of so bizarre a task, I felt that I could be "pushed just so far."

"It will be hard enough to make Noel see reason in this thing," I said, "I am none too sanguine as to what I can do, although I am going to put forth my very best efforts. But to have him make a third on one of these excursions where Mary is exerting all her charm in learning what Redfield is trying to do—no, that is impossible."

"I should have seen that, myself," my father said, with the frank acknowledgement of error which makes him a really "big" man. "But who, then? You cannot be spared to go with her. You are likely to be needed elsewhere at any minute."

The heady thrill which this announcement gave me was tinged with uneasiness as to what bizarre—and dangerous — service he might require of me.

But Mary was speaking, diffidently, but with a certain slight authority, nevertheless, and I turned attentively to her.

"Do you know, Lina might do," she said.

"Olina!" I exclaimed protestingly, for I had two vital reasons for objecting to the enlistment of the young princess in this undertaking. One, was the responsibility I felt to Olina's mother, exiled queen of Transvania, and now Philip Veritzen's wife, concerning the girl, whose participation as a harpist in my play, made me feel as if she were a ward of mine.

The other and stronger feeling was the distrust—almost dislike—which was still mine toward Olina, who had done her best to break up Mary's marriage.

Drafting Olina.

Her conduct since her mother's marriage to Philip Veritzen, and her father-in-law's flamboyant public recognition of her as Noel's "sister," had been impeccable. Mary, long since, had forgiven her, and the two girls were good comrades, if not real friends. But I could not yet believe in her.

"Yes, Lina," Mary said. "Oh! I know how you feel about her, Auntie Madge, and I can't blame you. She did act like seventeen kinds of a heel. But she really has caught on to herself a lot, and isn't a bad scout at all. And I think she'd be just right for this stunt. She's crazy about any kind of adventure, she can be trusted to keep her mouth shut, and best of all, Steve isn't blind to the fact that she's a mighty attractive girl. Indeed, I've noticed him shining around her a bit. Yes. I think if you want a third person, Lina might do the trick."

If I had wished to protest further, the shrilling of the telephone would have stopped me effectually. I picked up the receiver to hear the operator say:

"Mrs. Graham? Mr. Graham at Dalemont, Massachusetts, wishes to speak to you."

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Sept. 24.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A RATHER routine state of affairs is the prognostic based on the lunar transits, as far as workaday or business operations are concerned. In other interests, however, there should be more than ordinary activity, excitement and pleasure to be joyously made the most of. Social, domestic, artistic and affectional matters should move at a lively pace, with personal magnetism, popularity and prestige greatly enhanced.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a year in which the personal interests and aspirations are paramount to mere commercial or financial achievement. Business may be routine or mainly concerned with promoting social, domestic or emotional satisfactions. All pertaining to art, amusement or romance should flourish.

A child born on this day may be blessed with exceptional ability in the fine arts, or with such forms as pertain to drama, entertainment, social, domestic and cultural enhancement. It should be gracious, affable and magnetic.

Train Child To Enjoy Fine Arts

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Speaking not long ago before a group of parents, public school teachers and university professors, I said that I considered the "A" of the alphabet of character education to be the training of the tot, about as soon as he can toddle, in the unambiguous meaning of NO; the foundation of regard for the rights of others and respect for constituted authority.

Then I added that, as a rule, the best way to teach the young child the meaning of NO is by physical pain, such as a good old-fashioned spanking with the parent's bare flat hand on the youngster's bare fat thighs; that if this be done intelligently—therefore rarely but effectively and consistently, in immediate connection with the few acts or objects to be permanently avoided—other modes of punishment, such as sitting in a chair doing nothing for exactly twenty minutes, say, can be substituted.

Stop Spankings Early.

Physical punishment can well be abandoned by the time the child is three, four or five, I pointed out, provided he has clearly learned the meaning of NO by that time.

Then I reminded the audience that many young children of today, especially from the so-called better homes, don't have much regard for the rights of anybody else, or much respect for authority, and said I believed the chief cause of this condition is the fact that so many parents among the better-educated have supposed they never should spank a child to restrain him.

"My quarrel," I continued, "is not with these parents. As a rule they are doing as they suppose they should do; as they have been told by many so-called experts. My quarrel is with those who have given this advice. They are responsible, to a large degree, for the do-as-you-pleaseness of thousands of youngsters who make life miserable for their parents, their teachers, their adult neighbors, their playmates and themselves.

After my talk, a professor of psychology arose. He gave the usual line: "Any parent who spanks a child admits that he has failed to guide the child intelligently." Let me add here that not many professors of psychology now say this; not many ever did, just a few.

That professor and I carried on a dialogue from which it turned out that we agreed that some pain is necessary for establishing control of the young child. The difference was that I was for causing localized physical pain by means of spanking, and he for giving the youngster pain all over by means of a shrieking voice or stern look.

Dangerous Weapons.

Any parent who teaches the young child the meaning of NO without using corporal punishment, employs what seems to me a more dangerous weapon — a "dirty" look or loud, shrill voice. Now I ask you, is it not more human to smack a tot of two or three, than to shriek at him or look daggers at him? Is it not less damaging to his tender personality to spank him, than to lacerate his soul and body with a poisoned tongue or to stab him with a piercing eye?

Make your choice. Mrs. Myers and I deliberately made ours when our children were little. We spanked them for certain acts we had agreed upon beforehand. We wanted to reserve our tongue and eyes for tenderness and joyousness; not to associate these agents of affection with pain.

WHAT IS YOUR CONTRACT?

HAVE YOU ever been in a spot in which you forgot what was your contract and for the moment thought you were playing at a suit declaration when actually it was No Trumps? Or vice versa? Of course you have. Has it upset you so badly that you felt disgraced, and could not play another hand correctly for the rest of the evening? If so, just remember that the greatest players in the world slip this way upon occasion, forget about your worries, and continue to play your regular game.

One of the world's most famous players, a high officer of the American Contract Bridge league, made that bid of 6-No Trumps during the Southern Appalachian championships in Asheville, N. C. The bid was a beauty, a striving for match points, and could have earned top score on the deal, but did not.

West led his club 2 to the 10, J and A. The spade 6 led to the A and then the diamond 10 from dummy. East playing the 7 and South putting on the 2. Up to that moment the declarer had in mind the idea that he was playing the hand in diamonds, but it then dawned on him at once that the contract was No Trumps and he was blocked from ever getting into the dummy to use the long diamond suit. He still had one chance to make the contract—if the heart K was held by East in a doubleton. If so, he could count two tricks in spades, four in hearts, four in diamonds and two in clubs. So he tried the heart finesse, but it lost. Later he had to lose a club also and was set a trick.

If he had not forgotten that the contract was No Trumps and had finessed the diamond J to the third trick instead of the 10, he would have had top score on the deal.

ONE-A-MEAL

Remember summer days call for one hot dish a meal. A cup of hot tomato juice or beef or chicken broth will do the trick. Do not let your health down by going on all cold foods because the weather is sizzling.

Starched clothes should be allowed to dry, then dampened, rolled up for an hour or so and ironed.

Vegetables With Sauce Or Au Gratin

By BETSY NEWMAN

Green vegetables are at their best cooked in very little water, and served with seasonings of butter, salt and pepper. However, many prefer them with a cream sauce, and if you're using the oven for broiling or baking, you can scallop almost any vegetable with delicious results.

Today's Menu.

Broiled Hamburg Steaks
Baked Potatoes
Green Beans au Gratin
Rhubarb Salad
Coffee Layer Cake
Tea or Coffee

Green Beans au Gratin.

2 cups white sauce
Grated cheese
1 lb. fresh green beans

Prepare beans and cook in a little broiling, salted water until tender, about 10 minutes. Make white sauce of 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups milk, ¾ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, ½ cup liquor drained from beans. Cook until smooth and pour over beans in buttered baking dish. Sprinkle 4 tablespoons grated cheese on top and put under broiler and brown cheese before serving, or bake until cheese is brown.

Rhubarb Salad.

1 package lemon or lime flavored gelatin
1 cup hot rhubarb sauce
¼ cup nut meats
1 cup water or pineapple juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped apples

Dissolve gelatin in hot rhubarb sauce, add cold water or pineapple juice and salt. Cool until mixture starts to thicken, then add apples and nut meats. Turn into molds rinsed in cold water and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce and watercress or chicory, with French or cooked dressing.

Coffee Layer Cake.

½ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
½ cup molasses
½ cup made coffee
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon mixed spices
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream butter and add sugar, gradually, and blend until creamy; add eggs, then molasses and coffee, and last, flour, salt, spices and baking powder sifted together. Bake in layers in 350 degrees F. oven for about 20 minutes, and put together with any desired frosting.

Cut Down The Gestures Nervous Lady

By MME. QUI VIVE

You know and I know and the woman next door knows the girl who is always flapping her wings in the air. Can't make the simplest statement without hand waving or eyebrow lifting or doing funny gasps. She does everything except wiggle her ears, and she'd do that if she could. Calm down, little one, calm down!

No matter how pretty she looks, as far as popularity goes she is all wet because she makes people nervous. Her frock may be a knockout, her coiffure the latest whimsy, her complexion divine. But she has too much to say and she says it with so much emphasis and with so many contortions of one kind or another that she wears you down to skin and bone. You hope and pray that somebody will drag her away.

Which goes to prove that getup is not the whole stock of beauty goods. Isn't just how you look, it is how you behave. Pretty dry goods supply the scenic effects but, after all, it is what you are. Every girl and woman should give herself a look over, note if she has developed any little eccentricities or nervous habits. There are a lot of them; few of us are free of them.

We use the mirror often enough to scan appearance. We fail to reflect upon manners and behavior. Isn't it the truth?

The poised woman has charm. We need more of her these days, when the world is troubled. She lends herself easily and comfortably to the companionship of others. She may be thinking with all intentness about the whale of a dentist's bill that will be coming in the first of the month, but she is sitting pretty, hands folded in her lap, and there is upon her face an expression of interest and enjoyment which is a compliment to her friends. She is, apparently, selfless, absorbed in what is going on around her, making herself agreeable, behaving as a well-mannered woman should behave.

Compare her to the jittery girl who is the life of the party, but ofttimes too lively. She keeps the center of the stage, leads the conversation, waves her arms, gestures with her hands. She sets sensitive nerves on edge, curls them up, makes them squirm.

Perhaps our over-animated young lady is suffering from a disorganized nervous system instead of a desire to show off. One can't tell. But she must wear herself out as she depletes the forces of her listeners. If she would cut out the handwaving that would save some energy.

Few remarks are so unusual or remarkable that they need to be accompanied by emphatic gestures. And it is noticeable that the woman who has the silliest things to say usually makes the biggest noise saying them. Gabbing is a vice with most of us, men as well as women.

CHAPTER VIII

"Bring him up here. HEY! QUIET!" Mayor Scott then took command of the microphone that had been provided. With scant formality, but with no lack of enthusiasm, he opened a mass meeting in a way he had not planned. He spent a good five minutes eulogizing and introducing Dal Tower to the populace here.

"Gosh all Judas!" Dallas whispered excitedly to Lillian and Thad Monroe. "He's calling me up. I never made a public speech in my life!"

"Then you're starting now, pal!" Thad whispered back. "Lead with your chin again. You can't go wrong this time!"

Dal Tower was in a ticklish spot at this moment and he knew it. Under the physician's strict code of ethics he dared not appear to thrust himself into much prominence. On the other hand, the mayor of the town was eulogizing him out of all reason and calling on him to make a speech.

"What'll I do? What'll I do?" he kept whispering to his friends, Lillian and Thad.

Then all at once Dallas made up his own mind. He walked up the steps and onto the platform, smiled at Mayor Scott and at the people, and leaned near the microphone. Instantly, quiet reigned. It was as if everyone present wanted to see the handsome new doctor.

"Ladies and Gentlemen," said he. "Mayor Scott unfortunately was misinformed. The person who risked most to save those lives last evening was Miss Lillian Mayfield, and I stand here only to give her public thanks—in your behalf—for that service."

He dropped quickly off the platform, and the cheering was such that no one could talk. Thad lifted Lillian up. She stood there a moment, smiled sweetly, and came back down. When she came near Dallas again she spoke in his ear.

"I could choke you!"

"Go ahead!" he whispered back, impishly.

"You didn't have to tell them that. And it wasn't so, anyway. Are you always so careless with the truth?"

"I was hiding behind a woman's skirts."

Those three had indeed been near the platform, and Mrs. Mayfield now found herself badly confused. Before she quite realized it people were congratulating her, praising Lillian, bragging on Dr. Dallas Tower and altogether gushing about everything. Baby Doll took it happily in stride, but Martin Deale was coolly aloof again. At least he tried to be.

"Yes sir, that new young doc will shore beat yore time, Martin," some middle-aged man suddenly addressed him loudly. "I see he's settin' up to Miss Lillian. They make a fine looking couple. You better look out!"

"I beg your pardon?" Martin tried to be haughty.

"I say that young doc's after yore sweetheart, yeah! I betcha a cotton bale he is. You better step lively. Hadn't he better, Mrs. Mayfield?"

The fellow considered it a rare joke, for he rocked with laughter. Only Baby Doll giggled in return, looking at Martin. Then all at once she turned loyal again. She frowned at the man's back and grasped Martin's arm. "The - the boor!" she muttered, severely. Common sense told effusive Baby Doll Mayfield that she personally didn't stand a chance of attracting Dallas Tower, but that long-wanted attention from Martin Deale might now be coerced.

* * *

The mass meeting lasted from 2 p. m. to 5. At 2:30 the loud speakers announced that Dr. Tower was wanted at Hightower's drug store, and the call turned out to be an emergency appendectomy at the hospital. Moreover, he handled it skillfully; and when it was done, three other professional calls awaited him. Mrs Nagel, the head night nurse, heard about it from the day nurses when she went on shift, and all of them saw that the young physician's career here was assured.

"If it just doesn't make some of the older doctors jealous," Mrs. Nagel worried.

"It won't. There's room for all." The hospital matron said that. "But I do hear he's already cutting quite a figure in society, too. They say he actually kicked young Martin Deale down last night."

"No!"

"Yes! A number of people saw it. Out near the well. And the Deales came here in 1871."

"'72," Mrs. Nagle corrected.

"'71." Miss Frankie Haltom said. She—"

"I don't care. It was '72. My father knew them. He used to say that old Nathan Deale—"

"No matter," the day matron finally retreated. "Young Martin is deeply rooted. Respectable people."

"Yes. Whyever did he kick him?"

"He was holding Lillian Mayfield in his arms."

"What? He was?"

"Yes!"

"Hmmp!"

Their gossip stopped in sudden consciousness of guilt, but with appetite unsatisfied. Duties called them then and they could say no more but the matron went downtown immediately.

Excitement was still awhirl downtown.

If the mass meeting was officially over that fact could hardly be noticed, for the mass was still here. Mr. Pollard, school superintendent, had ordered the band to disperse. Four members went home. The remaining 42 musicians — mostly teen-aged and beaming— ganged together on the courthouse steps again and began playing swing music. This might have been scholastic heresy on any ordinary occasion, but not when an oil well was gushing on the edge of town.

First car that tried to get through the square gave up and backed out the way it came. Then somebody grabbed a girl and started dancing. The idea spread quickly. Mayor Scott, no mean politician himself, went to the sound truck microphone again and proclaimed a public street dance to last as long as anybody would play and anybody would make merry.

Mrs. Mayfield, Lillian, Baby Doll, Thad and M. J. all rode to the Mayfield home with Martin in his car, and by unanimous consent they agreed to come back for dancing after supper. For almost 24 hours the oil well odor had dominated this town and the attendant excitement showed no sign of lessening.

They reached Mrs. Mayfield's place to find seven strangers on the front porch. Black Jason Weems was, in effect, holding them at bay with mutterings and glowerings.

"Miss Millie, ma'am, dese white folks think they can sweet-talk you into lettin' 'em sleep heah!" Jason was horrified. "They wants to pay you money for suppuh, too!"

The town, it appeared, was completely swamped with strangers. Thad explained the emergency to all concerned, suggested the use of spare beds and even cots in the halls "for some minor honorarium, so that the guests won't feel themselves unduly obligated to Miss Millie." When it was all done, Millie Mayfield (almost as horrified by it all as Jason, but secretly thankful for the money) had taken in $52 in actual cash for one evening! If her whole happy routine was upset, and if Jason Weems was virtually a nervous wreck, the money went a long way to alleviate that condition. Thad Monroe had long since determined that the Mayfield family wasn't as well off financially as it needed to be.

During these proceedings, Martin Deale remained utterly silent. Lillian had agreed to double up with Baby Doll in order to rent her own room for the night to three lease lawyers and a geologist from Houston, all nice appearing men. Both girls rather liked the house-party atmosphere created. When Martin finally spoke, he told Lillian it was deplorable to see her subjected to this intrusion. Lillian laughed gaily at him, and invited them all to go with her to the street dance at 8 o'clock.

The boys went to their own homes for supper but they came back soon. Lillian and Dorothy were ready, and Mrs. Mayfield almost so.

At least a thousand people were dancing when they got back to town. Martin took immediate charge of Lillian and danced twice with her, and when Thad and M. J. cut in they saw that she was constantly looking around.

"Don't be ugly to me, M. J.," she pleaded.

He didn't have to do that. Dal Tower came up to the group, somewhat breathlessly, during the next intermission.

"Hello, everybody!" he was beaming. "I been slaving, and I went out to the house, Lillian. Jason told me you had already come down."

* * *

He had studiously spoken to no one individually, save Lillian, lest there be further clash with Martin Deale. Plainly he wanted only peace and comradeship with all of them.

But Martin had reddened, too obviously. He was across the little group from Dallas, perhaps 10 feet away, and all the others involuntarily glanced at him. His lips were pressed tight. He started to speak, but changed his mind and walked straight toward Dallas.

Then, as if by pre-arrangement, Thad and M. J. stepped out to block him. They hadn't said anything about it, but they knew that Martin had armed himself with a gun.

THEATERS

Skating Spectacle.

Spectacular skating and skiing scenes, the music of Glen Miller's orchestra, and the dancing of the Nicholas brothers headline the attractions in Sonja Henie's "Sun Valley Serenade," showing at the Ohio. The blond ice skater reveals herself as a light comedienne for the first time in this picture and the cast includes John Payne, Milton Berle, Lynn Bari and Joan Davis. The story revolves around Payne as the piano player in Miller's orchestra who agrees to care for a refugee, as a publicity stunt, and then discovers the refugee to be Sonja.

Scattergood Story.

Scattergood Baines the small town store keeper from Coldwater again outwits his adversaries in "Scattergood Meets Broadway," opening Wednesday at the Madison. In this third of a "Scattergood" series, starring Guy Kibbee, the village philosopher goes to the big city to help a budding young writer produce his play on the Gay White Way. Frank Jenks, Joyce Compton, Bradley Page and Chester Clute are in the supporting cast. Frank Buck's "Jungle Cavalcade" is the co-attraction. Some of the hunter's greatest thrills in 25 years of jungle experience are presented in this picture.

Alaskan Drama.

* * *

Ice Presentation.

"Ice-Capades," skating spectacle showing at the Park, presents the combined talents of all the stars of the road show by the same name. Featuring Dorothy Lewis, who headlined skating entertainment in the Iridium room of the New York's St. Regis hotel for three years, the cast also includes Belita, Vera Kruba, Lois Dworshak and Megan Taylor, other stars of the silver skates. The story concerns a young newsreel cameraman who is assigned to cover a skating exhibition and then focuses the camera on the wrong girl. "Naval Academy," the second picture, features Freddie Bartholomew and Billy Cook.

* * *

"Knute Rockne All American," film story of the life of one of America's greatest men in the field of sports, is now showing at the Majestic. Starring Pat O'Brien in the title role, the picture incorporates all the thrills of the football field and the wise philosophy of Rockne. Gale Page plays the role of Bonnie Rockne's wife, and Donald Crisp, the president of Notre Dame. "Road Show," with Adolphe Menjou and Carol Landis is the second attraction.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—This is another column about the slaughter of the innocents that is as sure as sunrise to happen in this country as the vast war production with its arbitrary priorities goes forward into full blast. I mean the widespread destruction of the little fellow in business and the jobs of his employes.

Johnson

The pressure is only beginning to be felt but the program has only started. When it gets into full swing the casualties are going to run into the tens of thousands and the justified squawking will create universal sympathy and probably universal soreness—which is bad for both unity and confidence in governmental management.

Farming out of war orders by the big fellows is just a mustard plaster, first because most of these establishments are not equipped to take them and second because it slows production, reduces quality, increases cost and will be done with reluctance and fall a heart by those under a stern responsibility for results in military and naval supply.

The problem rarely arose during World War One, because the demand was much less since this possibility had been foreseen and provided for and because much of technical military manufacture was contracted for abroad, we furnishing replacement raw material. It is all different now. We are the arsenal of democracy—including Russia and China.

It is high time before the slaughter commences to consider means to offset the destruction and the creation here of the greatest monopolistic concentration of business this country has ever known.

The bearing of this sacrifice is not like taxes, assessed on ability to pay, a principle of relative equality and leaving the bulk of small business in both manufacture and sale at least alive. Now it is literally to be wiped out on no rule of equality whatever, but because government administration will simply permit these people no supplies with which to carry on their business.

It is a difficult problem but not without its precedent. For centuries in the law of the sea there has been a principle called the "rule of general average." It has varied as among different maritime nations and at different times. In the last 50 years it has become more uniform throughout the world.

Generally speaking it is something like this. When a ship is in distress and some of her cargo has to be thrown overboard to save the rest, or when there is a fire and the sea has to be let in on some of the cargo to keep all from being destroyed, or in several similar circumstances, the loss to the owners of the destroyed freight is not permitted to fall solely upon those owners. An attempt is made to average the loss over all the owners of all the cargo saved.

It seems to me that the principle and its application are very similar to the misfortune we are about to meet and that thought should be immediately given to this or some other application of the ancient rule of justice to the brand new circumstances in which we are bound to find ourselves.

There is a dangerous, if slowly rising, resentment growing up in this country already over the airy, unplanned and arbitrary application of harsh sacrificial laws by men untrained in their application and apparently heedless of their destructive effects.

Can't this administration ever learn to act in time to avert or cushion unnecessary and unfair war burdens?

END FIVE-WEEK STRIKE AT OHIO CIGAR PLANTS

(By Associated Press)

The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union (CIO) sent workers back to cigar factories in Lima, Van Wert, St. Marys and Findlay today after a five-week strike, but faced a showdown at a strikebound Dayton plant.

H. R. Simonds, president of the Simonds, Worden, White company at Dayton, notified 235 employes to report for work or the company would "make arrangements to employe someone in your place."

Lonnie Fryman, strike chairman, asked Mayor Charles J. Brennan for police to protect pickets. Fryman charged the management "directly responsible for an attempt to provoke a disturbance as an excuse to, if necessary, break by use of strikebreakers the legal right of American workers for redress of their grievances."

The UERMW struck at the plant Aug. 15 for 15-cent hourly and 15 per cent piece-work pay increases and a closed shop. Fryman said starting wages in the plant were 40 cents an hour and employes who had "ben there 10 and 15 years" were "averaging as low as 60 to 65 cents an hour."

At Lima last night, John Pohlable, assistant general superintendent of the Deisel-Wemmer-Gilbert corporation, manufacturers of cigars at plants in Lima, Findlay, Van Wert, St. Mary's and Detroit, announced 2,200 workers idle since Aug. 29 would resume work and factories would be operating full force by Thursday.

The Aircraft Vertical Independent Union at the Curtiss-Wright corporation's Columbus airplane factory will "await the decision of the NLRB" in fixing a collective-bargaining agent election date, C. O. Leach, union president, said last night.

Up and Down THE STREET

Few public library subscribers know that each of the numbers used in cataloguing books for library shelves represent a definite type of book or subject. To acquaint readers with this, the Dewey Decimal system, Ms. Lois Pennell is arranging a weekly exhibit showing titles from a certain series of books and their corresponding numerical classification. Called "Parade of the Books" the exhibition will be introduced by the section designated as 020-028 known as "Books About Books."

When a dog bites a man, that's not necessarily news but when four dogs try to bite him, that is. J. J. McKenna, 190 North Main street, told police last night that four dogs had attacked him while he was walking on Franklin avenue near East Sixth street. McKenna was treated at General hospital for a laceration on the calf of his left leg. Police are seeking the owner of the dogs and will request him to tie them for ten days.

Humphrey Bogart, the movie star, is an old friend of the Louis Bromfield family but there isn't any sign of him becoming a neighbor to Malabar Farm, in the near future at least, all Hollywood reports to the contrary. Mrs. Bromfield, speaking for her novelist-husband who reached Hollywood yesterday for another two weeks' conference in regard to the Hemmingway script, "For Whom the Bells Toll," said there is no foundation for the report that the author had given the Warner star an acre of land and invited him to be a neighbor.

2 OTHERS WIN PROBATION AT ARRAIGNMENT

Bellville Man Loses Fight Against Workhouse Term In Morals Case.

Seven of 12 persons who pleaded guilty yesterday to grand jury indictments were sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory and Ohio penitentiary by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston who placed two others on probation and continued three cases.

William Lindsay, 71, Bellville, under a 120-day sentence in the Columbus workhouse for contributing to the delinquency of a minor, was ordered by the Fifth district appeals court to serve the sentence.

Lindsay who was among six men sentenced in the Bellville morals case last May appealed the workhouse sentence which was imposed by Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer. The appeals court heard the case last week and yesterday affirmed the probate court verdict. Lindsay was found guilty of immoral conduct with a 17-year-old Bellville girl.

Two Mansfielders were sentenced yesterday by Judge Huston on their pleas of guilty to criminal assault charges. Charles Hartman, 29, received an indeterminate sentence in the reformatory for assault on a six-year-old girl. Clifford Stake, father of five children, was sentenced to one to 20 years in the penitentiary. He pleaded guilty to a charge of having illicit relations with his 13-year-old stepdaughter.

Carl McClellan, 20, received a one-to-20-year sentence in the reformatory for auto theft, while his companion, Mrs. Maxine Bonnell, 20, was placed on probation for two years. They admitted taking a car in Mansfield last June and driving to New Jersey. They were returned here from Harrisburg, Pa.

Jack Christ, 18, Mansfield, who admitted the theft of at least 10 automobiles since 1938, was sentenced to the reformatory for one to 20 years. He has served two terms in the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster.

Wynne Cooke, who pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery, received a one-to-20 year sentence in the penitentiary, and Melvin Hunter, Mansfield, was sentenced to the reformatory for one to 15 years on his plea of guilty to an indictment for breaking and entering.

Judge Huston ordered a sanity test for Walter Ruth, Butler, who requested the test after pleading guilty to a charge of altering a check he received from the village of Butler. Ruth said he believed he was insane because he had attempted to take his life three times.

Paul Brown, indicted for forgery was sent to the reformatory under a one-to-20 year sentence, while Oscar Jones, who pleaded guilty to a charge of shooting with intent to wound, received three years' probation.

The cases of Buck Royster, colored, and James Patton, indicted for grand larceny, were continued to permit more investigation of their records. Both pleaded guilty. Joseph Pawkstaipis, arraigned on a charge of auto theft, pleaded innocent.

Court attaches said other defendants named in the 37 indictments returned last Friday probably would be arraigned Wednesday or Thursday.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

THIS is the time of the year when I find myself sitting in an aisle seat, within bon mot distance of Jules Glaenzer, Jules Brulatour, William Rhinelander Stewart, Herbert Bayard Swope and Louis Shurr, wondering how the dickens the play upon which the second act curtain has just fallen ever got produced, anyhow.

After the second act, you always know. Sometimes you know in your heart after the first act, but you go out for an orangeade thinking hopefully, "Well, it'll pick up—it's bound to," and you run into somebody who says, "Juan Glutz is awfully good in it, isn't he?" and you agree, yes, he certainly is and you begin to feel a little more optimistic, and then you push through the jam to the sidewalk and get a clear view of George Jean Nathan standing at the curb's edge, wincing, and you know in your soul it is all over but for striking the set, but you go back in, anyway.

* * *

The lights dim as you are halfway down the aisle, and you hear a lass in ermine whisper to her groom. "The set's maaar-velous, isn't it?" and you feel a quick glow, because the set is really excellent, but pretty soon the actors are out there draped over the set and you realize that not Donald Oenslager or Jo Meilziner or Harry Horner or all three put together can help the poor actors if the words they have to say are not good words.

And it is there that you get to the crux of the situation; and the crux is the playwright.

* * *

For I have come to the not even slightly startling conclusion that the trouble with the theater today is the writers who make the plays and the producers who are undiscerning enough to put them on a stage and charge admission.

The fault is not with the actors—competition is stiff on Broadway and most actors, by the time they get to a stage within stone's throw of Shubert Alley, are pretty competent. The ratio of bad acting to bad playwrighting is about 1 to 100. Similarly, the other mechanics of the theater are good: sets are often pretty exciting, even in poor plays, stagehands have learned to switch scenes in the flutter of an eyelash, songwriters on the whole write pretty good tunes.

* * *

But not all the pretty tunes, not all the gorgeous setings, not all the smooth mechanical trickery in the world or all the virtuoso performances can make a silk play out of a sow's dialogue. If the action isn't exciting, the background doesn't seem to matter. If the lines aren't meaningful, Bernhardt and John Drew and Duse on the same stage couldn't make it a good play.

So I am moved to implore the producers and their angels to wake up to the fact that a theatrical production is not so much in the laps of the gods as in the typewriters of the play-authors.

ARMY RELEASES MANSFIELDER, 28

Leaves Service Under 28-Year Age Ruling, Returns Home.

Believed the first Mansfielder to be released under the army's 28-year age limit, Richard W. Snyder, 29, was back home today after slightly more than three months in the army.

It required only a week for Snyder to obtain his release. He said he was asked only to prove his age by producing his birth certificate. He received an "excellent" character rating and was transferred to the enlisted reserves, making him subject to call at any time.

Snyder was inducted into the army last June 13 from the Board 2 district. He was a member of Co. A, Fifth ordnance training battalion. He said he would return to his former job. He is single.

FORMER SHELBY RESIDENT DIES

SHELBY — George Washington Baker, 71, of Oberlin, former Shelby resident, died last evening at the Elyria hospital from lockjaw which he received when he stepped on a rusty nail a week ago. Born in Shelby on Oct. 17, 1869, Mr. Baker had moved with his wife to Oberlin from here in 1917.

Survivors are his wife, Anna Kathryn; two daughters, Mrs. Phillip Frey of Detroit, Mich.; and Mrs. Leonard Chew of Shelby; two brothers, Daniel of Youngstown and John of Detroit; one sister, Mrs. Minnie Rader of Oberlin; and three grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Barkdull funeral home here pending funeral arrangements.

JURY VISITS SCENE OF RIOT

Inspection Precedes First of Trials Growing Out of 'Little Steel' Strike.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—A jury of seven women and five men today visited the scene of the bloody riot which grew out of the "little steel" strike of July, 1937.

The inspection was preliminary to the trial before Common Pleas Judge Charles J. McNamee of the first of 250 damage suits, totaling more than $2,500,000 against the Republic Steel Corporation.

Judge McNamee accompanied the jury to the former Cleveland strike headquarters of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee (CIO) where a group of plant workers charged the picket headquarters on July 26, 1937.

The test suit, brought by John Solanics, asks $50,000 damages for injuries received during the free-for-all, which he claims was inspired by company officials to disrupt the organizational drive of the SWOC of which he was a member.

Solanics contends the violence grew out of a conspiracy between plant officials and workers to precipitate a riot so as to discredit the union.

The company does not deny the plant workers charged the pickets, but asserts it knew nothing of their intentions and had no part in any conspiracy to discredit the union by precipitating violence.

TWO JURY PANELS CALLED FOR TRIAL OF 41 IN LOT FRAUDS

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Two federal jury panels—aggregating 156 persons—were summoned today as the government opened its trial of 41 men indicted for mail fraud and conspiracy in the sale of burial plots in three central Ohio cemeteries.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Ray O'Donnell said that the taking of testimony probably would be deferred for several days due to the jury seating and a proposal that jurors visit cemeteries in Marion, Columbus and Springfield before hearing witnesses.

O'Donnell reported that three defendants—O. C. Young of Granville, R. E. Sanborn of Cleveland and L. M. Stump of Columbus—had died since Judge Robert R. Nevin of Dayton originally opened the hearing last March 18. A postponement was granted then because of the illness of O'Donnell and four defendants.

The indictments were returned against officers and salesmen of Forest Glen, Incorporated, sales agency for Forest Glen cemetery at Marion, Glen Haven at Springfield and Glen Rest at Columbus. U. S. Attorney Calvin Crawford asserted that the men fraudulently guaranteed profits of $25 to 100 per cent" on approximately $3,000,000 worth of purchases between November, 1933, and May, 1938.

Nine counts of using the mails to defraud and one of conspiracy are contained in the joint indictment. Judge Nevin asserted that while the men were to be tried together, the jury would consider each case on its own merits with conviction or acquittal possible on each of the counts.

ENTER SHOW

Three Mansfield-owned horses, as well as a number of horses from other cities and towns in the Mansfield vicinity have been entered in a horse show at Mt. Gilead Thursday, it was learned today.

The show is being sponsored by the Mt. Gilead Riding club as a feature of the Morrow county fair and will be held at the Fairground in Mt. Gilead at 3 p. m. Thursday.

The three Mansfield entries, according to Harvey Bailey of Raemelton Riding club, are from Raemelton farm. They are Sally Bourbon, Raemelton Velvet and Raemelton Rose.

A special event of the show will be a "Gay Nineties" class, in addition to the usual horse show events.

Former Marshal On Trial Today In Holiday Death

XENIA —(AP)—Hayes A. McLean, 72-year-old former marshal of nearby Cedarville, went on trial today for the Fourth of July eve slaying of Walter Collins, 19, shot to death as he discharged fireworks with a group of friends.

McLean admitted firing the shot, Prosecutor Marcus Shoup said, but insisted that he did it "just to scare the boys." He is charged with manslaughter.

Young Collins, son of John W. Collins, president of Cedarville's school board, was an Ohio State university student. Coroner H. C. Shick termed the youth's death accidental and recommended that the marshal be charged with manslaughter.

Sheriff Walter Spahr said McLean, in recounting the shooting, told them he never had shot anyone during his 28 years as village marshal.

The Rams gave every indication in their 19 to 13 victory at New London last week that they are successfully climbing the long, hard road back to their former status as one of the best class B grid machines in the state, so the entertainment they provide Friday night should be worth seeing.

* * *

This 1941 Madison team appears to be a far different ball club than the one that was wrecked a year ago by necessary disciplinary action, and it begins to look like the only serious difficulty the Rams will meet this fall will be provided by the two class A teams on the schedule, Mt. Vernon and Fostoria.

However, Dennison comes here Friday night with a reputation for being a really tough class B team, and one that will give the Rams a real test.

* * *

Now we're really rampaging Rams.

* * *

Not all of Mansfield's grid fans will stay home to see the Rams Friday night, however. A big crowd will follow the Mansfield high Tygers to Elyria, where Coach Paul Snyder's well-balanced and veteran club is expected to have little difficulty in chalking up its second straight win.

It should surprise no one if the Tygers duplicate the 40-0 score which they ran up on Akron West last week. But Coach Vern Hoffman, who scouted the Elyrians in their 12-6 defeat by little Oberlin last week will tell you that Elyria played hard, tough football all the way, and won't give up touchdowns to the Tygers without an argument.

* * *

Mansfield's professional team, the City News club, also hits the road this week-end, going to Akron Sunday afternoon for a game with the highly-ranked South Akron Awnings.

Idle last week, the pros should be in top condition for the Awnings. Last year they tackled the South Akron outfit after taking a bad physical beating at McKeesport and they were in no shape to give the Awnings a battle.

* * *

Will the Mansfield fans follow the pros to Akron? It was reported yesterday that already a caravan of 10 automobile loads of fans had been organized for the trip.

Cardinals Meet Old Manager

By SID FEDER
(AP Sports Writer.)

There is a guy named Frankie Frisch in the National league, known up and down the Senior circuit as "Onkel Franz."

Now, Onkel Fanz doesn't care much for Leo the Lip Durocher who manages the Brooklyn Dodgers. Onkel Franz said as much when he was boss man of the St. Louis Gas House gang and Leo the Lip was just a St. Loo hired hand.

* * *

Well, Leo the Lip and his Dodgers had a game and a half edge over St. Louis this morning as the Cards moved in to Pittsburgh for a four-game series with Onkel Franz's Pirates in the tightest National league race in the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

* * *

Here is the way the race sizes up today:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.	Games to P.
Brooklyn	97	53	.639	6
Brooklyn	97	53	.647	4

Onkel Franz is still playing up the hilt showing no favorites. He has nominated Ken Heintzelman as his elbower in the first game of a twin bill with the Cards this afternoon and Ken has given the warriors from St. Louis plenty of trouble. In the nightcap it will be Truett Sewell or Bob Klinger.

The Dodgers are idle today after adding a half game to their margin yesterday with a 5-0 trimming of the Phillies as the Cards had an open date.

* * *

The only other action in the National league found the New York Giants splitting a twin bill with the Boston Braves. King Carl Hubbell served a steady nine-hitter in the opener for a 5-3 decision.

* * *

One of two games on the curtailed American league card saw the 1940 champions, the Detroit Tigers, move into a fourth-place tie by mowing down the Chicago White Sox, 11-0, with Alton Benton and Luther Thomas combining in a six-hit job and the Tigers clawing three hurlers for 18 hits.

Hallabrin To Start

Mansfield Boy Listed With Ohio State's First String.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Coach Paul Brown let it be known today who probably would start for Ohio State in the football curtain-raiser against Missouri Saturday.

At the same time, he said that the visiting Tigers would be heavier and faster than the Bucks, and that his team rated as the under dog.

* * *

"And that's just the way we want it," Brown added. "We'll be in tip-top condition and will have no excuses if things go poorly."

* * *

Red Birds Rushing To Playoff Title

(By United Press)

The Columbus Red Birds were only a game away from the undisputed championship of the American association today.

* * *

The Red Birds, who finished the regular season ahead of all league competition, have defeated the Louisville Colonels three games to one in their play-off for the Governor's cup and the right to represent the Association in the Little World Series against the International league representative.

* * *

The score of last night's play-off game was 9 to 4 but it was a closer shave for the Ohioans than the score indicates. They were trailing 4 to 1 when they went to bat in the seventh inning. In the next two innings they scored eight runs and went to bat in the ninth inning with the lead they held until the final out.

The teams play in Louisville again tonight.

PLANS GOLF TOURNEY

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Henry Hurst, linen merchant who gave Philadelphia the $7,500 Hurst invitational golf tournament to hold a $20,000 fence, is planning a $12,000 tourney for next year. He disclosed plans for the rich event after reports showed the invitational inaugural last week-end drew 26,000 spectators.

SLATE NEW TEAM

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—(AP)—Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director at Indiana university, announced today an agreement for a three-year football series with Kansas State college beginning in 1942.

FRANKLIN HELPS HIMSELF IF HE TAKES THIS FIGHT

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Lem Franklin, one of the fight game's hardest punchers, can do himself a lot of good by knocking over Chicago's Tony Musto in the ten-round main go of a fight card here tomorrow night.

Dr. J. E. Barnes of Youngstown, chairman of the Ohio state boxing commission, declared today that if the Cleveland fighter wins "I shall demand that the National Boxing association recognize Frankli as the No. 1 contender for the heavyweight title unless Lou Nova, Billy Conn and Buddy Baer suddenly agree to stop sidestepping him."

Horvath Gets Starting Job

Mansfield Mike Wins Wooster Guard Post.

WOOSTER—Coach Johnny Swigart seems to have selected his starting lineup for Wooster's grid opener with Bowling Green next Saturday and the Scot coach is spending most of his time on his replacement problem.

With a small squad in numbers, Swigart is seeking to line up the more talented Scots so that he can use them to the best advantage to give the regulars a breathing spell.

* * *

* * *

This proposed line includes five lettermen and two sophomores. The newcomers are Horvath, who played at Mansfield high and Stoneburner, a former Wooster High General.

Swigart will select his backfield from five veterans. They are Capt. Harry Ditch, Karl Kate, Bill Shinn, Rich Sproull and John Healey. The first two are certain to start.

Healey is handicapped by ailing eyes and Swigart is trying to get a special headguard, now on the market, which make it possible for a gridder to wear glasses while playing.

* * *

After opening at Bowling Green, the Scots now face an open date October 4. Efforts of Athletic Director L. C. Boles to fill the date vacated by Gettysburg's cancelation have been futile to date.

* * *

Wooster's second game will also be a road affair. On October 11, Wooster and Denison will attempt to settle last season's tie affair on Deeds Field at Granville.

Case plays at Wooster October 18. The twenty-third homecoming for Wooster alumni. This game will be a part of Wooster's 75th anniversary of the granting of the charter.

The other games on Wooster's schedule are Muskingum at New Concord, Oct 25, Mt. Union at Wooster Nov. 1, Oberlin at Wooster (Dad's Day) Nov. 8 and Wittenberg at Wooster Nov. 15.

Two Shutouts Rolled In Loop

Two shutouts were scored in the opening matches of the Ohio Fuel Gas bowling league at Colony alleys last night, Office blanking Warehouse, and Sales department taking a 3-0 win over Meter Repair.

* * *

The combined Shelby-Willard quintet scored a 2 to 1 victory over Galion.

* * *

F. Carver of Office rolled high total of 538, and Hunt of Meter Repair had high game of 211.

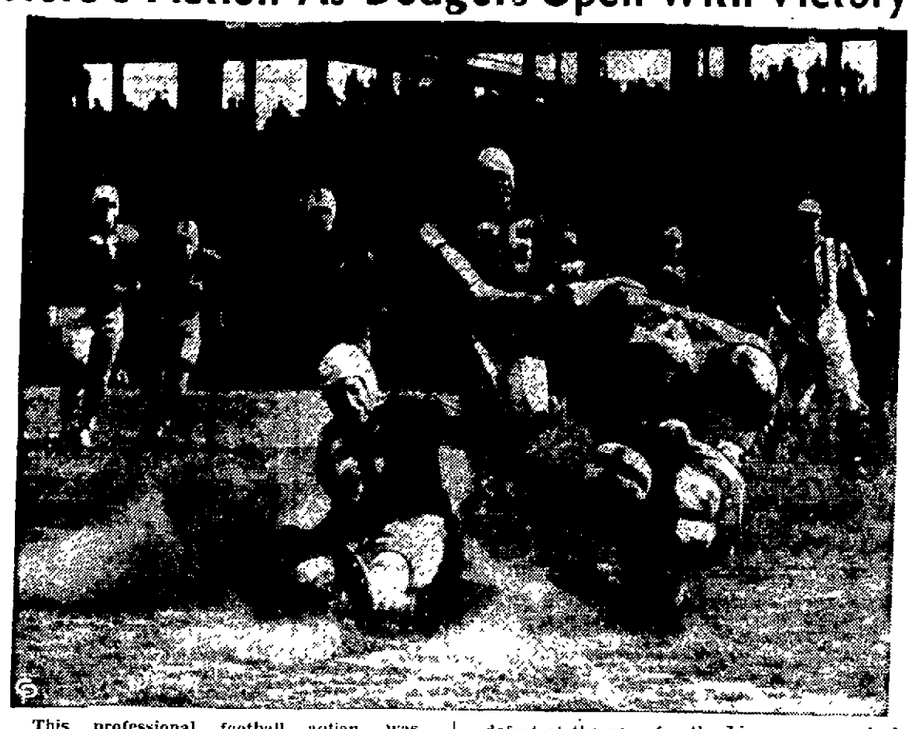
COACH TO NAVY

MARIETTA—(UP) Crew Coach J. Ellis (Hooter) MacDonald of Marietta college will leave this week to become an assistant to Lieutenant-Commander Gene Tunney in the navy's physical fitness program. The college has granted MacDonald a temporary leave of absence. He has been commissioned as a lieutenant in the naval reserve corps.

Here's Action As Dodgers Open With Victory



This professional football action was snapped in the game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Detroit Lions in Brooklyn. The Dodgers won, 14 to 7. It was the second defeat of the year for the Lions, now coached by Bill Edwards, former Western Reserve university mentor. In the picture Whizzer White of the Lions, No. 44, is downed after a gain.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Gloom along the Gowanus Dept.: The Yanks haven't got their pitching rotation settled for the World series, but otherwise they're beginning to pick up speed . . . Bill Dickey could set a record today by catching his 100th game of the season, making 13 consecutive years he's done it . . . And the Yanks need only five more double plays to tie the league record . . . Red Rolfe expects to get back into harness this week and Charley Keller is trotting around the park every morning trying to strengthen his ankle . . . Wonder how the Dodgers felt yesterday watching the Phillies holler at the umps and having to admit that Them Bums in the blue suits might occasionally be right? . . . Joe Louis, who seems more interested in the World series than his fight with Lou Nova, maintains: "The Yankees will take care of 'em in the World series."

* * *

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

B. M. Atkinson, jr., Louisville Times: "If it's true what a magazine recently tried to prove, Lou Novikoff doesn't mind a curve. But he has a helluva time with optical illusions being thrown at him."

LEARNING THE CUFF

Ballyhoo for the Louis-Nova fight compares it with the first Dempsey-Tunney affair, but the only similarity this department can see is that it might ran . . . The Dapper Dan club collected $3,582.82 from last week's fight show in Pittsburgh, which makes $18,604.63 the club has earned for charitable work in its five years of existence . . . Joe Bach, who used to help Elmer Layden at Notre Dame, took over at St. John's college of Minnesota this year, and the largest crop of freshmen in history reported . . . Bill Chadwick, new big league hockey referee, is a page at the New York stock exchange and got his start at calling 'em when he followed the exchange brokers to West Point for a game and was pressed into service as a linesman.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Leo Durocher: "That fella in St. Louis wanted me to take a picture with Southworth. I turned him down. So he says 'If you get into the World series, will you use McCarthy?' Would I? I'd throw my arms around him if the photographers wanted. I'd stand on my head. Boy, would I!"

OHIO TEAM WINS

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—(AP)—The giant-killing Grafton, O., entry met Randolph Field, Texas, today in the featured fourth round game of the National Amateur Baseball World Series tournament. Dearborn met Fort Custer in another contest.

COLTS MAKE DOUGH

NEW YORK —(AP)— Alsab and Requested, a pair of colts that cost their owners only $2,000 and between them have won $125,915 this season, meet in a match race today to settle the argument as to which was the greater bargain.

Goebel Beers Win High Match Honors

Goebel Beers rolled high total of 2,500 last night in the Commercial C league at Colony alleys on games of 803-792-905, and the last game also took game honors for the evening.

H. Blackford had high single game with a 265, and L. Need had high total with 244-188-230—642.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS - (AP) -The curtain was up today on Ohio's annual football drama - a gigantic production boasting a cast of 17,000 boys and 525 teams.

The first act spotlight played heaviest on the northeastern sector around Massillon and Canton, but plenty of stars crashed the headlines in other portions of the state.

* * *

Massillon's mighty Tigers, with Coach Bill Houghton filling the huge shoes left when Paul E. Brown took over the Ohio State reins, won a close 6 to 0 decision over Wierton, W. Va., to run their victory string to 34. The Tigers, however, needed a Weirton fumble on the 20-yard line, and an eight-yard plunge by Fred Blunt, the team's only veteran, to bring home the win and satisfy 19,000 fans.

* * *

Canton McKinley, outstanding foe of the Tigers, raced away to a 62-0 victory over Canton Timken before 17,000, and indications were that the balance of power in the ancient Bulldog-Tiger series might swing to the Canton crew this year. Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder of McKinley, who replaced Johnny Reed at the end of the 1940 campaign, loosed a junior halfback, Jack Crider, to bring victory.

Crider, with touchdown runs of 55, 24, 31, 58 and 16 yards, and three extra points after touchdown, took over [illegible] placement, took over [illegible] ing leadership with 33 [illegible] another 70-yard scoring [illegible] nullified by a clipping pen[illegible]

Clarence (Chuck) Campbell of East Cleveland Shaw, who transferred from Van Wert to replace Trevor Rees, new Ohio State assistant mentor, led his boys to a 19-7 win over Cleveland East before 13,600 fans, while Cleveland Collinwood upset a tough Sandusky crew 14 to 9 to set the stage for Friday night's Collinwood-Shaw engagement which is expected to "pack the joint" with more than 15,000 customers.

Jack (Speed) Harris, Zanesville's 'streak-of-lightning coolred halfback, came up with the week's long-run laurels as he romped 100 yards after intercepting a pass to help beat Columbus Aquinas 25 to 0. A couple of minutes later he raced 70 yards for another.

Other leading scorers included Jack Tremelling of Canton Lincoln, who scored four touchdowns, one on a 92-yard run, to give his mates a 22-2 win over Carrollton in Lincoln's debut in the Class A ranks; Pershing Mann and Willard Beatty, who scored three times each as Washington Court House ran up the week's biggest score, 89 to 0 over Waverly; Jim (Whizzer) Wisbon, who ran 68, 24 and 24 yards fo rthree touchdowns as Fremont Ross beat Bellevue 34 to 7; Bob Hall of the same Fremont squad who galloped 65 and 58 yards for two markers, and Roger Thomas of Xenia Central, who contributed three touchdowns which won over Wilmington by 20 to 0.

And while you might reasonably think that most mentors would be in the dumps over loss of veteran material to the armed forces, defense job, graduation, etc., a majority of them actually were almost cheerful. The green timber from which teams must be fashioned is beginning to shape up all right.

Coach Frank (Duke) Hayes of Marietta, who thought his Pioneers might have to quit football this year, sent a backfield composed of four comparative newcomers through its paces and admitted that it looked pretty good. Second-year men held several key positions as Coach George Gauthier polished off his Ohio Wesleyan squad for its opener against Albion (Mich.) Saturday at Delaware. RULES AND REGULATIONS

Of the Mansfield Board of Health to Protect the Health, Welfare, and Safety of the People of Mansfield by Regulating and Governing Plumbing.

Be It resolved by the Board of Health of the City of Mansfield that the following rules and regulations governing plumbers and the installation and inspection of plumbing be and are hereby adopted.

Part I. BASIC PRINCIPLES

Section 1. Definitions.

(A) Master Plumber: A master plumber is any person skilled in the planning, superintending and the practical installation of plumbing, and who is familiar with the laws, rules and regulations governing the same.

(B) Journeyman Plumber: A journeyman plumber is any person other than a master plumber who, as his principal occupation, is engaged in the practical installation of plumbing in the employ or under the supervision of a master plumber.

(C) Plumber's Apprentice: A plumber's apprentice is any person other than a journeyman plumber or a master plumber who, as his principal occupation, is engaged in learning and assisting in the installation of plumbing and drainage under the direct supervision of a master or journeyman plumber.

Section II. Water Supply.

(A) All premises intended for human habitation or occupancy shall be provided with a supply of safe water.

(B) Buildings in which water closets and other plumbing fixtures exist shall be provided with a supply of water adequate in volume and pressure for flushing purposes.

(B-a)—Provided that water service pipes from the curb to the building shall not be less than ¾" inside diameter, not less than ¾" inside diameter for the main building supply, and all branch lines to be not less than ½" inside diameter.

(C) A public water supply distributing system furnishing water for drinking or domestic purposes shall not be connected with the distributing system of any other water supply.

Section III. Cross Connections on Drainage and Water: No plumbing fixture, device or construction shall be installed which will provide a cross connection between a distributing system of water for drinking purposes and a drainage system, soil or waste pipe, so as to permit or make possible the back flow of sewage or waste into the water supply system either by gravity or siphonage.

Section III. (A) All fixtures hereafter installed or replaced shall have an over-the-rim supply with at least an air gap above the rim of the fixture or be provided with an approved siphon or vacuum breaker.

Section IV. Hot Water Tanks and Heaters: Every hot water supply tank hereafter installed, replaced or relocated shall be provided with an approved pressure and temperature relief valve. Every gas water heater hereafter installed, replaced or relocated shall be provided with a vent flue connected to a flue or chimney.

Section V. (A) Detailed Rules and Regulations: Section 12600-137 to 12600-273 inclusive and any subsequent amendments thereto of the General Code of Ohio, the same being a portion of said General Code of Ohio covering sanitation, and or any rules and regulations governing plumbing and sanitation which may hereafter be adopted by the Ohio Public Health Council, be and the same are hereby incorporated in and made a part of these rules and regulations and shall apply to all classes and character of buildings the same as though fully re-written herein.

(B) Private Sewage Disposal Installations:

(a) No private sewage disposal system shall be installed or maintained on any property accessible to a sanitary sewer or where the construction of an accessible sanitary sewer may be obtained through petition of city council by one or more property owners abutting the proposed improvement.

(b) No private sewage disposal system shall be installed until the location and the proposed methods of construction thereof have been approved by the plumbing inspector. The installation and construction of all private sewage disposal systems, equipment, and devices shall conform to the recommendations of the Department of Health of the State of Ohio.

Part II. ADMINISTRATION

Section VI. Plumbing Inspector.

(A) Plumbing Inspector's Appointment: The Board of Health shall appoint, for the purpose of enforcing the rules and regulations as prescribed by said Board, an Inspector of Plumbing at such salary and such terms and conditions as the Board of Health may prescribe.

(B) The inspector so appointed shall not, during his term of office, be engaged or interested in the plumbing business or the sale of any plumbing supplies, nor act as agent directly or indirectly for any person so engaged.

(C) The inspector shall work under the direction and supervision of the Health Commissioner.

(D) Qualifications of Inspector: All inspectors shall pass an examination by the Board of Examiners of Plumbing and shall have had at least ten (10) years practical experience in plumbing.

(E) Before entering upon the duties of plumbing Inspector, he shall execute a bond to the City of Mansfield in the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) conditioned for the faithful performance of duties of the office, which bond shall be paid for by the City of Mansfield.

Section VII. Duties of Plumbing Inspector. The duties of the Plumbing Inspector hereinafter designated as the Inspector, shall be as follows:

(A) The examination and approval of plans and specifications.

(B) The issuance of permits.

(C) The collection of fees.

(D) The inspection of plumbing, drainage and sanitation.

(E) Conducting of tests.

(F) The arrest and prosecution of offenders.

(G) Advisory service to the public in matters of plumbing regulations.

(H) Service on complaints.

(I) Reinspection and sanitary maintenance of plumbing.

(J) Act as secretary of the examining board and custodian of records and proceedings of the Board of Examiners.

Section VIII. Permits and Permit Fees.

(A) Issuance of Permits: No plumbing shall be done in the City of Mansfield, except in case of repairs or leaks, without a permit being first issued by the Plumbing Inspector. Applications for permits shall be made by a master plumber, the owner, or by a firm or corporation having a master plumber in its employ and shall be on printed forms to be provided by said Board of Health.

(B) Permit Fees: The fee for a permit and the first fixture or fixture opening shall be fifty cents ($0.50) and an additional charge of twenty-five cents ($0.25) shall be made for each fixture or fixture opening which fees shall be deposited in the General Fund of said City.

(C) In addition to ordinary plumbing, the following are classified as fixtures:

(a) All storm drainage inside of buildings and each opening shall be classed as one (1) fixture.

(b) Every house drain that may hereafter be replaced or re-located.

(c) Each private sewage disposal installation.

(d) All hot water heaters or hot water tanks shall be classed as fixtures.

(e) All fixtures and traps which may hereafter be replaced and/or re-located.

Section IX. Approval of Plans: No such permit shall be issued until suitable plans and specifications in duplicate of the work to be done have been submitted to the Inspector and have been approved by him.

Section X. Record to Be Kept: The Inspector shall keep a record of all plans and specifications submitted to him together with his action thereon, and he shall also make a record of all plumbing in each building installed under these rules and regulations.

Section XI. When Work to Begin: If the work is not done under the approved Plans within six (6) months from the date of approval, such approval shall be deemed to have expired by limitation.

Section XII. Inspections:

(A) The Inspector shall be notified by the plumber or owner when any work is ready for inspection. All parts of every plumbing system shall be made water, air and gas tight. All soil, waste and vent pipes shall be tested with the water test in the presence of the inspector. All plumbing systems when complete shall be tested in the presence of the Inspector to ensure that such system has been installed in a correct and safe manner in accordance with the Laws of the State and the rules and regulations of the Board of Health, and no part of any plumbing system shall be put to any use before final inspection is made unless permission for such use be first granted by the Inspector.

(B) All plumbing work shall be left uncovered and convenient for inspection until examined and approved by the Inspector.

(C) After said plumbing work has been inspected and approved by the Inspector, when requested by the plumber or owner, he shall issue a certificate of approval of same.

Section XIII. Authority to Enter Buildings: The Inspector is hereby empowered with Police Authority to enter any building or dwelling within the City of Mansfield for the purpose of examining, inspecting and testing the plumbing when the Inspector has reason to believe that conditions are detrimental to health, or contrary to the provisions of these rules and regulations and the orders of the Board of Health.

Section XIV. Condemnation of a Building: It shall be the duty of the Plumbing Inspector to place a notice on any building or dwelling within the City of Mansfield where the plumbing is in such condition as to render the same insanitary and unsafe for human habitation or occupancy, and such notice shall not be removed by anyone but the Plumbing Inspector and not by him until laws governing such plumbing have been complied with.

Section XV. Jurisdiction: Plumbing shall be deemed to mean the profession, art or trade of, and all work done and materials used in:

(A) Introducing, maintaining and extending a supply of water through a pipe or pipes or any appurtenances thereof in a building, lot, premises or establishment.

(B) Installing, connecting or repairing any system of drainage whereby foul, waste, rain or surplus water, vapor or fluid is discharged or proposed to be discharged through a pipe or pipes from any building, lot, premises, or establishment into any main public or private sewer, drain, pit, box, filterbed, leaching well, sewage tank or other receptacle on public or private property.

(C) Ventilating any building sewer or fixture or appurtenance connected therewith.

(D) Connecting any building, lot, premises, or establishment with any service pipe, building sewer, water pipe, main, public or private sewer or other underground structure within a distance of three feet of the outer wall of the building.

(E) Performing all classes of work generally done by plumbers.

Section XVI. Reinspection:

(A) Whenever a reinspection is made necessary by the failure of the plumber or owner to have the work ready for inspection when so reported, or by reason of faulty or improper installation he shall pay a fee of five dollars ($5.00) for each such reinspection, such fee to be paid before any reinspection is made.

(B) When plumbing work has been disapproved by the Inspector, said plumbing system shall not be put to any use until it has been altered as prescribed by the Inspector and has received his approval.

Part III.

CERTIFICATES OF COMPETENCY

Section XVII. No person shall in the City of Mansfield engage in the occupation of plumbing until he shall have obtained a certificate of competency so to do from the Board of Health of said City. No person shall engage in the business of plumbing as a master plumber, nor shall any person expose a sign of plumbing or any advertisement pertaining thereto unless he shall have first been duly certified in accordance with the provisions herein set out.

Section XVIII. Examination and Examination Fees:

(A) Master and Journeyman Plumbers: Any person desiring to engage in or work at the trade or occupation of plumbing or to perform any of the work comprehended in this ordinance either as master plumber or journeyman plumber shall make application in writing to the Board of Examiners, hereinafter provided for, on a printed form to be furnished by the Board of Health. Such person shall, at such time and place as such Board may designate, undergo such examination as the Board of Examiners may direct as to his qualifications and competency to do such work.

(B) Apprentice Plumber: An Apprentice plumber may work at the trade and occupation of plumbing under the direction or supervision of a certified master plumber or journeyman plumber after he has first filed his name and address and his employer's name and address with the Board of Health. Only one apprentice plumber shall be employed with one master or journeyman plumber.

(C) Examination Fees: Every applicant for examination shall pay an examination fee of $3.00 before he shall be qualified to undergo such examination. No part of such fee shall be refunded on account of failure of the applicant to qualify for such certificate.

Section XIX. Certificate When Issued: After an applicant for a certificate of competency has passed such examination the Board of Examiners shall so certify (and whether as master plumber or journeyman plumber) to the Board of Health. Upon the payment by the applicant to the Board of Health of the fee hereinafter prescribed, said Board shall issue to the said applicant a certificate of competency authorizing him to engage in, work at, or follow the trade or occupation of Master Plumber or Journeyman Plumber in said City in the capacity specified in such certificate.

Section XX. Certificate Fees:

(A) Master Plumbers shall pay an original certificate fee of fifty dollars ($50.00) and shall thereafter annually pay a renewal fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00).

(B) Journeyman Plumbers shall pay an original certificate fee of five dollars ($5.00) and shall thereafter annually pay a renewal fee of three dollars ($3.00).

Section XXI. Renewal of Certificates:

(A) Said certificate of competency shall expire December 31st of each year and shall be subject to renewal on or before that date. Persons failing to renew such certificate of competency, as required above, shall be considered as a new applicant subject to the requirements of obtaining an original certificate of competency.

(B) A person who, at the effective date of this ordinance, holds an unrevoked and unexpired plumber's certificate issued to him by the Board of Health of the City of Mansfield shall be deemed a Master Plumber or a Journeyman Plumber until the 31st day of December next following the effective date of this ordinance, at which time the holder of a certificate of competency based upon an examination may secure a certificate of competency as a Master or Journeyman Plumber upon application therefore being made to the Board of Examiners anytime prior to December 31st next following, and the payment of a fee as provided in this ordinance for annual renewal fees of a Master or Journeyman Plumber.

Section XXII. Board of Examiners:

(A) Members: There is hereby created and established a Board to be known and designated as the Board of Plumbing Examiners. This Board shall consist of four (4) persons appointed by the Board of Health of whom one (1) shall be a Master or Employing Plumber of not less than ten years (10) experience in the business of plumbing, one (1) Journeyman Plumber of like experience, the Health Commissioner, and the Plumbing Inspector, ex officio.

(B) Terms of Office and Qualifications: The term of office of each member shall be two (2) years and shall serve without compensation. All members of this Board shall be citizens and actual residents of the City of Mansfield.

Section XXIII. Powers and Duties:

(A) Organization: Said Board of Examiners shall within thirty (30) days meet and organize by the selection of a chairman. They shall prepare rules for conducting examinations and designate the time and place for the examination of applicants for certificates of competency.

(B) A majority of the members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and it shall require a concurrence of a majority of all members to approve or disapprove of the competency of the applicant.

(C) Said Board shall examine applicants for a Master Plumber's certificate as to their practical and theoretical knowledge of plumbing, house drainage, laws, rules and regulations in relation to plumbing also as to their ability to lay out plumbing work.

(D) All applicants for Journeyman's certificates shall be examined by said Board as to knowledge of the laws, rules and regulations and also their practical knowledge of, and their mechanical competency in the performance of plumbing work.

(E) Such examination may be made in whole or in part in writing.

Section XXIV. Re-examinations:

Any applicant who fails to pass the examination shall be ineligible for re-examination for a period of thirty (30) days. Should said applicant fail to pass this second examination he shall be ineligible for re-examination for a period of twelve (12) months.

Section XXV. Bond:

Any person desiring to engage in or perform any of the work comprehended in this ordinance as Master Plumber shall furnish, after they have successfully passed the examination hereinabove provided for and before the issuance of the certificate herein provided for, a bond to the approval of said Board of Health and the City Solicitor of the penal sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) conditioned to reimburse said City of Mansfield for all actual damage caused by any act or omission by said Master Plumber to any property which the City may own or for which it may be responsible, and to hold said City of Mansfield free and harmless from all claims for damages on account of negligence of misfeasance of the plumber and from all cost and expense growing out of the defense of such claims. Said bond to be in force from the date of its acceptance and the issuance of certificate by said Board of Health to the end of the period covered by said certificate and must be renewed on the reissue of said certificate.

Section XXVI. Transfer of Certificate:

No person having procured a certificate under this ordinance shall permit or allow the use of his name or certificate by any other person, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of obtaining a permit to do plumbing.

Section XXVII.

Revocation of Certificate:

Certificates of competency may be revoked by the Board of Health on recommendation of the Board of Examiners on account of violations of the provisions of this ordinance, or the rules and regulations of the Board of Health.

PART IV.

Section XXVIII.

Owner's Constitutional Privilege:

Nothing herein contained shall prohibit any bona fide owner from installing plumbing in his or its own building provided that:

(A) Plans and specifications are filed with and approved by the Plumbing Inspector.

(B) The owner applies for and secures the necessary permit.

(C) The owner pays the necessary fees.

(E) The owner applies for inspection of his work.

(G) This privilege does not extend to an owner having in his or its employ one whose regular duties consist of plumbing.

Personal installation by an owner shall be by himself and for himself in his own building and without compensation or pay from any other person for such labor or installation. The owner exercising this privilege shall conform to all requirements of this code as herein stated, and shall not set himself up as a Master Plumber, nor shall he employ Journeyman Plumbers.

Part V. PENALTIES

Section XXIX. Violations:

In case of violation of these rules and regulations of the Board of Health, or the laws of Ohio or any part thereof in the doing of any plumbing work, the approval of the plans and specifications thereof shall be nullified by the Inspector and notice thereof shall at once be given to the plumbers having charge of the work and doing the same, and the owner of the building or his agent, and thereupon all work under such plans and specifications shall immediately cease, and work shall not recommence until such plans and specifications shall have been reapproved by the Inspector.

Section XXX.

Whoever violates these rules and regulations shall be penalized as provided in the General Code of Ohio, Sections 4411-4418 inclusive.

Section XXXI.

Should any section, paragraph, sentence, clause or phrase of these rules and regulations be declared unconstitutional or invalid for any reason, the remainder of said rules and regulations shall not be affected thereby.

Section XXXII.

The Plumbing Ordinance passed on the 10th day of April 1939 is hereby repealed and all other ordinances and rules and regulations in conflict herewith.

Section XXXIII.

These rules and regulations shall be in full force and effect from and after 30 days from date of publication.

Adopted September 8, 1941.

That home your family loves so dearly!
PROTECT IT AGAINST LOSS
with a WESTERN and SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL WHOLE LIFE POLICY

If you are among the millions owning mortgaged homes, you have worried about the possibility of your being taken away before the debt is paid. Would your family, without your earnings, be able to meet the obligation?

The holder of your mortgage will insist that it be fully protected by fire insurance. Should you be less concerned about protecting your home with life insurance? A Western and Southern Commercial Whole Life Policy to cover the debt can dispel this cloud that so often threatens home ownership. It will guarantee that your family will continue to enjoy the blessings of the home you have provided for them.

The cost of this protection is negligible in comparison with the security and peace of mind provided. The sooner you act, the lower the cost will be. Why not call the Western and Southern man today.

FIVE CENTS A DAY

Men naturally ask—"What does this protection cost? And how do we come out in case I live?"

Suppose you are age 35 and your home has a $5000 mortgage which you are reducing at approximately $280 a year. At this rate, the mortgage will be repaid in 20 years.

The annual premium on a $5000 Commercial Whole Life Policy, at age 35, is $100.05. If you live and continue these payments for 16½ years, you will have paid out $1,650.83. But your policy, at the end of 16½ years, will have a cash value of $1,230, leaving a net cost of only $420.83 over the 16½ year period.

NOW GET THIS: If your mortgage is one of the FHA types with 4½% interest, you will still owe, at the end of 16½ years, $1,224. But this is less than the cash value of your policy by $6.00. Your home will then be debt-free three and one-half years earlier than planned and the cost of your insurance for the entire period will be reduced further by the elimination of three and one-half years' interest on the mortgage, amounting to $113.00. This will reduce your net cost for the entire period to 5 cents a day!

SLUG FAILS

GARY, Ind.—(U.P.)—George Miller, drug clerk, believed there might have been some justification in a customer's anger when, failing to get her nickel back after dialing a wrong number, the customer yanked the receiver off the hook and walked out of the store with it.

But it was something of a shock when telephone company workers repairing the phone reported that the last coin deposited was a slug.

MOTOR STOCKS, AIRCRAFTS ON HIGHER GROUND

Other Leaders Timid as Mart Dealings Continue Monday's Sluggish Trend.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Aircrafts, motors and steels went into higher ground in today's stock market but many leaders displayed further rallying timidity.

Dealings were as sluggish as in yesterday's crawling performance.

Given an early lift were Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Consolidated Aircraft, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Warner Bros., Texas Corp., General Electric, J. I. Case, International Harvester and J. C. Penney.

The principal mainstay of the market, brokers said, was the fact offerings were notably light, margin dealings small and most purchases negotiated on a cash basis.

PLAN PROGRAM

Religious Education Classes To Be Held In Schools.

The Council of Religious Education in the public schools will continue a program similar to that conducted last year among the 1,250 third and fourth grade pupils of the 10 schools in the city, according to action taken last night at the home of the president, W. C. Mansfield, 47 Sturges avenue.

Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, will be in charge of the curriculum and Miss Elsie Smith will give the instruction. Each school will receive a 30 to 40-minute period of instruction each week.

Mrs. W. O. Leedy was elected secretary of the council, Rev. H. H. Ford, vice president, and Russell McCullough, treasurer, are the other officers.

A letter will be sent to each of the city churches contributing to the program, Mansfield said, explaining the work done by Miss Smith last year and giving a financial accounting of the council.
